

People's Park March Guarded

20,000 Rally In Berkeley

... NO VIOLENCE

Berkeley, Calif. (AP) — An estimated 20,000 "people's park" demonstrators marched through the streets of Berkeley Friday, watched closely by about 2,500 National Guardsmen and peace officers on hand to prevent disorder.

The parade was peaceful throughout. Some 400 young "monitors" accompanied the huge throng, urging nonviolence. Helicopters hovered overhead to help with crowd control.

The march followed a rally and climaxed a two-week, violence-marked dispute over eviction of young persons from what they called a "people's park."

On Transit District Land

Starting point of the parade in this University of California community was a "people's park annex" on Rapid Transit District land. The route extended southward 10 blocks to the original disputed area, now fenced in, and then back to the starting point over a different route.

Officers were out in force for fear of possible violence. One patrolman remarked, as new hundreds kept arriving with no incidents of trouble, that "you really have to be impressed with the crowd control."

A yellow sound truck and about 100 people on bicycles and motor scooters led the parade. Marchers clutched flowers and green flags, the latter signifying "green power," symbolic of grass. Some were very conscientious about picking up litter. Armed officers surveyed the scene from rooftops along the route.

Malcolm X, Che Eulogized

At the rally preceding the parade, slain Negro leader Malcolm X and the late Cuban guerrilla leader, Che Guevara, were eulogized.

By early afternoon about 8,000 young people had gathered at the staging area. They handed out gas masks. Some prepared placards. Others baked bread over oil drums. Still others passed out handbills and flowers.

A spokesman for the demonstrators said a flatbed truck loaded with sod would be used to "surround the park with spontaneous parks" — little piles of soil into which flowers and flags would be stuck.

The parade area resembled an armed camp. Besides guardsmen there were Berkeley police, a small contingent of California Highway Patrolmen and the shotgun-carrying Alameda County sheriff's deputies.

Route Was Disputed

"There will be no trouble," a police spokesman said before the rally, "if the demonstrators stick to the approved route."

However, militants who said they would have 50,000 at the rally were upset with a single route approved by a 6-2 vote of the City Council Thursday night.

Two last-minute peace moves came late Thursday.

Chancellor Roger Keyes said he would recommend to UC regents that the university lease the eastern half of the lot to the city in a marathon session, the City Council voted 5-4 to accept Heyns' proposal.

Uni Place Couple Rescued From Fire

An elderly Lincoln couple was rescued Friday evening by an unidentified Lincoln man after they were trapped in a burning house at 4627 St. Paul Ave.

The couple was identified as Mr. and Mrs. Donald Despain.

They were taken to Bryan Memorial Hospital by ambulance after being carried from a smoke-filled combination television room where the fire apparently started.

Lincoln fire department officials responding to the alarm could find no cause for the fire.

"We will have to continue the inspection Saturday morning after the room has cooled down," a spokesman said.

Six fire units responded to the call after the alarm was turned in by a frantic neighbor.

The identity of the rescuer remained unknown Friday night.

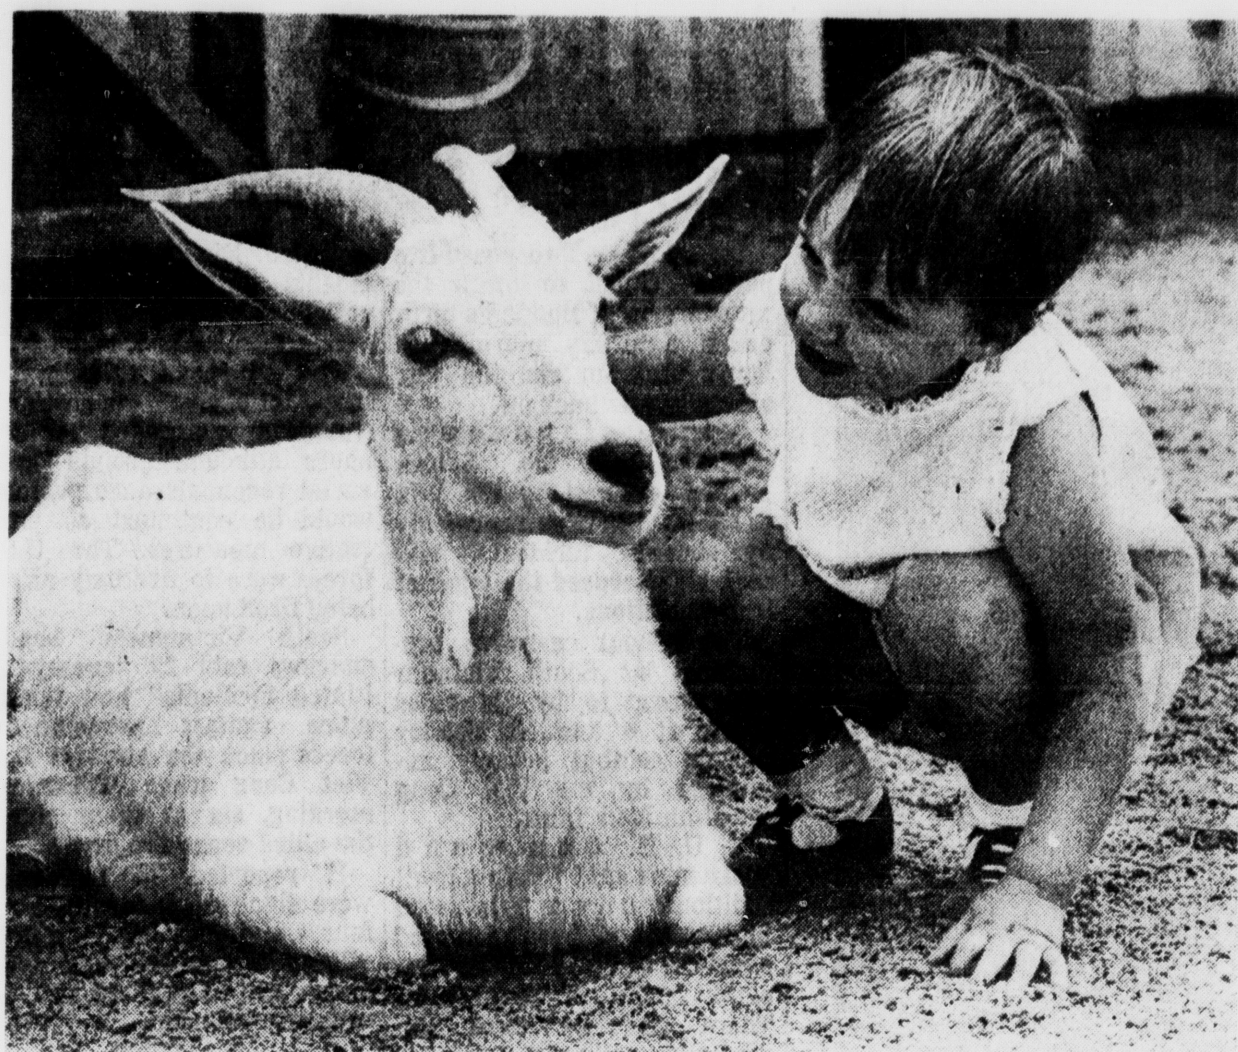

Police said the man saw the smoke and shouted to neighbors to call firemen and then ran into the house, carried out the woman, then ran back in and carried out the man.

The husband was reported in good condition at the hospital with multiple burns and the wife was reported in satisfactory condition after suffering from smoke inhalation.

U.S. Force Cutback Won't Be Requested

© New York Times Service

London — The Nixon administration, a United States official said Friday, will not recommend a reduction of U.S. forces in Europe to Congress if other NATO allies follow Canada's example and reduce their forces.

This statement was made in the light of British Defense Secretary Denis Healey's assertion, after a two-day meeting of the nuclear planning group of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, that Canada's planned reduction of her forces would lead to "a much earlier" use of tactical nuclear weapons by NATO forces in the event of Soviet aggression.

Healey's comments stressed the importance to Western strategy of the acceptance by NATO's nuclear planning group of a 65-page report by the British and West German defense ministers on the use of tactical nuclear weapons in the event of a Soviet attack.

The report was written before it became known that Canada's reduction of forces, or "restructuring" as Canadian Defense Minister Leo A. J. Cadieux prefers to call it, is not negotiable. Its over-all conclusion is that in the absence of the required level of conventional forces, the alliance must contemplate various uses of tactical nuclear weapons at an early stage in any battle.

Cut Feared

Healey and other defense ministers, including Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird of the United States, fear that the Canadian withdrawal will encourage other NATO members to cut their military commitments.

"If the Canadians go through with their planned reductions," Healey said, "and even more if this leads to a chain reaction from other countries, conventional strength would fall. The nuclear threshold would fall, and the point at which nuclear weapons would be used would arise much earlier."

The nuclear planning group is composed of the defense ministers of seven NATO members: the U.S., Britain, Belgium, Denmark, West Germany, Italy and Turkey.

Laird, U.S. officials said, explained to the ministers the "necessity" for an antiballistic missile system in the U.S. that would maintain the credibility of American strategic weapons, chiefly the Minuteman intercontinental ballistic missile system.

U.S. officials emphasized, in connection with the effect of Canada's force reductions, that the alliance should never be placed in a position where the credibility of its nuclear deterrents, strategic or tactical, could be questioned by the Soviet Union.

Efforts Favored

The administration's position is that other members should make efforts to improve the quality of their conventional forces in Europe comparable to those made in the last 15 months by the U.S. 7th Army. The increase in American "combat effectiveness" these officials said, would, if followed by others, raise the nuclear threshold from its present point.

Thousands Stuck In Big Missouri Traffic Back-Up

Eureka, Co. (AP) — Thousands of motorists spent part of their Memorial Day holiday Friday helplessly fuming in a gigantic traffic jam.

A Highway Patrol spotter plane pilot estimated more than 13,000 vehicles were backed up some 15 miles from a construction site on Interstate 44-U.S. 66 at Eureka some 15 miles southwest of St. Louis.

The westbound lane of the superhighway had been closed for repairs, and the deluge of holiday traffic simply overwhelmed the shared east-bound lane.

Police advised drivers not already trapped in the tie-up to detour.

Recreation Program Awaits Young And Old This Summer

By TOM EKVALL
Star Staff Writer

A multitude of new summer recreation department programs awaits both the young and the old who will be making use of the city's recreational facilities this summer.

Tom Weathers, assistant superintendent of recreation, said there will be new activities in the cultural arts, drama and music, senior citizen programs, family athletics, and teen-age fun.

The new activities are in addition to the old standbys furnished by the Park and Recreation Department: swimming at municipal pools which began Friday except at Muny, where it begins Monday, and supervised recreation at school playgrounds.

For the drama lovers,

Weathers said a summer drama will be staged for the first time at the Pinewood Bowl on Aug. 22 and 23.

"The drama, entitled 'Alice in Wonderland', will highlight the summer drama activities," he said.

Talent Contest Set

Weathers said a talent contest will also be added to the summer show entertainment.

The entertainment begins June 22 in Antelope Park and moves to a different park each week during a seven week period, including a big final show at Pinewood Bowl on Aug. 23.

Winners will be selected in the talent contest part of the show each week with a city-wide competition to determine the overall winner among the weekly winners at the end of the summer show wagon season.

Other attractions in the summer show wagon will be a non-contest talent show featuring variety acts, musical groups, comedy acts, and a short story plays performed by children 7-11 years old.

"We are adding children, youth, and adult acting classes to our drama program this year," Weathers said.

Also new in the way of music will be a beginning guitar class for teens and adults and a Kids Glee Club for those 7-11 years old.

Bicycle Trip Offered

He said the recreation department will offer a teen bicycle migration to Bennet during which time the high school students will spend the night camping along the way. No date has been announced for the bike hike.

A boat trip is being planned for the senior citizens on July 23 and will be repeated whenever enough people show an interest in such a trip.

Horseback riding will be a new featured program this summer with lessons to be given at Pioneer Stables.

Weathers said a Junior Green Thumb competition will be held with the children to receive seeds to plant in their yards. A prize will be awarded for the tallest plants during a judging contest in July.

Sports Included

Two track fields will be used this summer for the All-Corners track meet to be held on Thursdays for men and boys of all ages. The track meets will be at Southeast and Lincoln High Schools.

Youth baseball will start for boys 15 years and under Monday, June 2 and a boy's football clinic will be held Aug. 19 for those 8-14 years old.

Details on the location, dates, and registration fees for the summer activities may be secured by stopping at the park and recreation department office at 2740 A St., or by phoning 423-2391.

Analysis Says Tripling Of Spending On Hunger Needed To Feed Poor

Washington (AP) — An analysis by a Budget Bureau task force estimates that an adequate diet for the poor would require a tripling of federal spending, far more than has been asked by President Nixon.

The analysis, a working paper dated the same day as Nixon's May 6 special hunger message to Congress, calls $2.93 billion "probably the best estimate that can be generated at the present time of the price tag of an adequate diet for the poor" — in addition to current spending.

Current government programs for feeding the poor total about $1.5 billion annually, including $340 million spent on food stamps.

The Budget Bureau analysis does not break down its estimate of costs for closing the "food gap" but says, in effect, that current spending would have to be approximately tripled by adding $2.9 billion in some form.

Nixon has proposed adding $270 million to the food-stamp program for the fiscal year beginning July 1 as a first step toward closing the gap. And he recommended raising this to $1 billion in the fiscal year starting July 1, 1970.

The Budget Bureau task force analysis bases its estimate of the $2.9-billion "food gap" on the projections showing some 20.8 million Americans below the poverty line, slightly more than $3,000 income for a family of four in an urban environment.

The hitherto unpublished report, part of a six-month study by an interdepartmental Budget Bureau group for the Urban Affairs Council, recommends also that the food-stamp program be expanded by decreasing purchase requirements so that no family pays more than 25% of its income for stamps.

The recommendations submitted by Nixon to Congress would only lower the maximum purchase requirement to 30% of a family's income.

The administration program is designed to enable poor families to buy the equivalent of the Department of Agriculture's so-called economy diet, which costs $100 a month for a family of four.

But the Budget Bureau study states: "This is an emergency food plan designed for temporary use only. As such, it lends a conservative bias to estimates of the number of undernourished."

The study contains a series of proposed changes for federal food programs but says, "No claim is made that the list is either exhaustive, original or in any way competes with the President's proposals."

These include putting food stamp payments on the installment plan, establishing emergency loan programs to help the poor pay for stamps and establishing standards "to insure that all poverty families are eligible."

Stop Signs Taken, Barricades Moved:

By RANDY EICKHOFF
Star Staff Writer

Thefts of stop signs and other traffic markers have contributed towards traffic accidents in Lincoln over the past weeks, said Lincoln police Lt. William Satterthwaite.

"Several stop signs have been removed," Satterthwaite said, "and in some instances, barricades have been moved, causing traffic accidents."

"Local citizens probably know the area, but visitors or tourists don't and can have an accident."

A good example of what the removal of a stop sign could cause was the injury-accident at 48th and Old Cheney Road last week, Satterthwaite commented.

"Someone had removed a stop sign at that intersection and left no marker that it was a dead-end for 48th," he said.

"A car driven by Daniel Hutchison (20, of Doane College) and his girlfriend, Carlene Glaser (18 of Lincoln) was traveling on 48th and left the road and crashed into the ditch."

Hutchison struck the windshield and suffered severe facial cuts and bruises.

"At one time the doctors thought he might have lost his sight," Satterthwaite said.

His girlfriend also suffered cuts on her face and a sprained leg.

"If that stop sign hadn't been removed," Satterthwaite stated positively, "I don't think there would have been an accident."

Who removes traffic signs and for what purpose?

"College youths and high school kids," Satterthwaite stated firmly. "They decorate their rooms with them. Or take them as a practical joke."

He hesitated a minute then said, "It could very well become a fatal practical joke for someone."

Rockefeller Issues Appeal

Quito, Ecuador (P) — In the aftermath of the bloodiest violence of his Latin American tour, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller appealed to extremist student leaders Friday to forego violence and sit down and voice their grievances with him.

Police got the jitters when they discovered what appeared to be a bomb in the garden of the hotel where Rockefeller and his party were staying, but it turned out to be nothing more than a discarded oxygen container.

And in Bolivia, where Rockefeller was due Saturday on his fact-finding mission for President Nixon, the government claimed extremists were plotting to turn the Rockefeller visit into a bloodbath aimed at overthrowing the month-old regime of President Luis Adolfo Siles.

'Violence Not Needed'

"We do not need more violence," Rockefeller told a news conference in the capital of Ecuador, apparently mindful of the one death reported in Quito and six in Guayaquil.

"We are not here to fight, but to listen," he said, speaking in Spanish to newsmen.

Rockefeller noted the students protesting his visit say they do not like violence in various parts of the world and especially have condemned the United States for violence in Vietnam.

'It's A Shame'

"Therefore it's a shame that they (the students) resort to violence here," he said. "They should name a delegation to meet with us, to tell us how the United States can enter into a better road in its relations with Latin America."

Rockefeller, nearing the end of his ninth stop on what will be a tour of 22 Latin-American nations for President Nixon, showed concern over the mounting student violence.

"It is a shame they have destroyed a library where 2,000 of their fellow students have been studying and learning," Rockefeller said, referring to the extensive fire and explosion damage from a dynamite bomb at the U.S. Information Service library here Thursday.

Blames Outside Forces

Rockefeller said forces outside the countries were organizing the student demonstrations, but he did not elaborate on this.

He pointed out that there is student violence in most parts of the world, adding: "Youth wants change."

An important point in the Ecuadorian student violence is that the demonstrations in Guayaquil are not directly related to the Rockefeller visit. A dispute has been raging there for weeks between students and the administration of the University of Guayaquil. The students want entrance examinations eliminated.

the first round of the election came to an end. (More on Page 10)

HOVERCRAFT TO FIGHT IN VIETNAM

U.S. soldiers maneuver a 13-ton, air-cushion fighting craft onto its pad at Nha Be, about 15 miles southeast of Saigon. The unusual-looking vehicle can speed over land and water of the soggy Mekong Delta at 70 miles an hour. It is buoyed on five feet of air, created by a jet turbine engine and held under its hull by rubber apron that resembles a giant inner tube. Equipped with radar and machine guns, the hovercraft carries infantrymen on patrol.

Each Side Says Other Violated Buddha Truce

Saigon (P) — Two cease-fire periods called to mark the anniversary of Buddha's birth ended Saturday morning in South Vietnam and the war officially was back on.

Separate stand downs declared by the Saigon government and by the Viet Cong were broken repeatedly by shooting incidents, and each side accused the other of truce violations.

The 24-hour ceasefire proclaimed by South Vietnam and agreed to by its allies ended at 6 a.m. A 48-hour halt in combat activity announced by the Viet Cong ended an hour later.

A U. S. Command spokesman said "quite a few" additional enemy initiated incidents had been reported since the 34 listed for the first eight hours of the truce. There was no word immediately on the total number of incidents.

The Viet Cong command charged in a clandestine radio broadcast that "the U.S. pirates and their henchmen continue sending planes and artillery to bomb neighboring areas" and claimed many people were killed.

Ends Hour Later

The 48-hour Viet Cong cease-fire ends at 7 a.m., an hour after the one proclaimed by the South Vietnamese government and being observed by the South Vietnamese government and by the United States and other allied forces.

Although the two cease-fire periods partly coincided, neither side had publicly agreed to respect the other's.

In the 34 incidents occurring in the first eight hours of the allied truce, the U.S. Command said two Americans were killed and 17 wounded. Eighteen of the incidents constituted cease-fire violations.

Patrols Continued

The American rules were that offensive operations would be suspended for 24 hours although ground and aerial reconnaissance patrols would be continued as protective measures. The U.S. forces were to fire only after being fired upon.

South Vietnamese headquarters said 25 "enemy-initiated incidents" had taken place against government forces since the start of the Viet Cong truce Thursday morning, six of them since the allied cease-fire began.

It reported 14 incidents were significant, resulting in four civilians and three village or hamlet chief kidnapped and 16 soldiers and 18 civilians wounded.

Implication

In announcing the 48-hour cease-fire, the Viet Cong had implied that it would consider any allied military activity, including reconnaissance flights and patrols, as provocative acts and would attack them.

In the first hours of the allied cease-fire, five U.S. reconnaissance patrols were fired on as were four patrol helicopters, one of which was shut down.

One of the two Americans who died was killed in the downing of the OH6 observation helicopter near Ben Cat, 29 miles northwest of Saigon. Two other crewmen were wounded.

The other American was killed in a firefight involving elements of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division near Xuan Loc, 35 miles northeast of the capital. The U.S. Command said the fight broke out when a U.S. reconnaissance patrol ran into an enemy force.

School Integration Far From Complete

(C) New York Times Service

By JOHN HERBERS

Manning, S.C. — Fifteen years after the Supreme Court held public school segregation to be unconstitutional, nationwide controversy rages over how — and in some areas whether — the decision should be carried out.

The decade and a half since the court's unanimous action in Oliver Brown et al. v. Board of Education of Topeka has been marked by a mixture of voluntary compliance, dogged resistance, violence, tender scenes of racial reconciliation and unexpected ironies.

Much progress has been made toward eliminating the dual school system that existed in 17 Southern and border states and the District of Columbia when the decision was handed down on May 17, 1954.

System Persists

But the dual system has persisted in many counties and cities of the South, and in the North there has been a vast increase in de facto segregation. The federal authorities believe racial separation in classrooms is now about equal North and South.

Now, observers believe, the struggle is at a particularly crucial point. The Nixon administration has not yet demonstrated how hard it will push to eliminate what is left of the dual system that had existed by law, or to reverse the trend to segregated schools in Northern cities.

At the same time, the separatist movement that has developed among blacks in the last five years has diminished the drive for desegregation. Many Negroes now declare integration to be either irrelevant or undesirable.

A particularly ominous sign is the rise in violence this year in inner city schools as Negroes have demanded local control.

Gains Fewer

One irony of the struggle is that, although the decision is widely believed to have prompted the Negro revolution, there have been fewer quantitative gains for blacks in integrated education than in other areas such as employment, public accommodations and voter registration.

Another irony is that rural Clarendon County in the South Carolina lowlands, so untypical of the rest of America, can provide an example of what is involved nationally, even in the Northern cities.

Clarendon County provided one of the five cases on which the 1954 decision was based.

On the 10th anniversary of the court decision, nothing had changed in Clarendon County. The original desegregation decree was never served by the federal district court and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, which brought the original suit, several years later went back to the court with a new case.

Token Integration

In the last two to three years the white schools of the county submitted peacefully to token integration under court orders and the county is now receiving full federal funds.

Consequently, in 1968 the white public officials agreed to help sponsor a Head Start center sought by the black community. Before the Office of Economic Opportunity would fund the project, however, it insisted that the center have white students as well as black.

What desegregation has been achieved in the nation's public schools has resulted from the combined pressures of the federal courts, acting under the 1954 decision, and the executive branch, enforcing Title VI of the 1964 Civil Rights Act. That section of the law, which flowed from the court decision, bans racial discrimination in any federally assisted program.

Compliance Show

Compliance was slow in the 1950s and the early '60s, and was marred by constitutional crises and violence, such as those at the Little Rock, Ark., High School in 1957 and at the University of Mississippi in 1962.

Most of the early progress was in the District of Columbia and the six border states — Delaware, Kentucky, Maryland, Missouri, Oklahoma and West Virginia — and most of it was voluntary compliance with the Brown decision.

In the 11 states of the old Confederacy, however, there was so little voluntary compliance that, by the time the 1964 act was passed, only a little more than 2% of the Negro students were in formerly white schools.

But January this year, a survey conducted by the Office of Civil Rights of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare showed that 20.3% of the Negro students were integrated — that is about half a million blacks were in school with 10 million white.

But almost 80% of the Negro students were still attending Negro schools. Many of these had undergone some faculty integration as required by the federal department, but educators say most of them have not greatly improved.

Nigeria Protests Swedish Planes' Assisting Biafra

Stockholm (UPI) — Federal Nigeria has complained about the presence of Swedish planes and pilots on Biafra's side in the Nigerian civil war, diplomatic sources said Friday.

They said Swedish ambassador to Nigeria Carl Swartz was holding talks with Nigerian officials to explain Sweden's attitude.

The officials expressed considerable irritation about the planes and pilots, the sources said, but no formal protest has been lodged with the Swedish government.

The controversy arose over the appearance of a Swedish squadron of rocket-equipped, one-seater MFI-9B aircraft in secessionist Biafra.

Count Carl Gustaf von Rosen, who is commanding the squadron, claimed the Swedes destroyed 11 federal Nigerian war planes on the ground in three attacks in the last week.

Argentine Troops Open Fire On Workers, Students

Buenos Aires, Argentina (P) — Army troops opened fire on a column of a thousand workers and students in the riot-ravaged city of Cordoba Friday as a 24-hour general strike practically paralyzed most of the country.

The workers and students were fired on as they tried to march two miles from a suburb to the center of Cordoba, occupied by thousands of army paratroopers. At least five persons were reported wounded in the shooting.

Except for the new disturbances in Cordoba, a key industrial center 500 miles northwest of Buenos Aires, the nation was quiet after three weeks of worker and student demonstrations that have taken nine lives. Four have been killed in Cordoba.

The general strike grew out of protests against alleged police brutality in putting down recent demonstrations.

Most commerce, industry and transportation in Argentina was shut down or severely limited.

Omahan's Tarnished Dog Tag Holds Unusual Military Record

Omaha (P) — It's a bit the worse for wear, but it's accomplished a military record that's probably next to none.

"It" is a tarnished dog tag which saw action in the trenches of France in World War I, the beaches of the South Pacific in World War II and most recently in the jungles of Vietnam.

It came back safely from each campaign and brought its wearer back home.

The tag was first issued in 1917 to Mark C. McCoy of Omaha, a doughboy with the AEF.

It was before the days of the sophisticated dog tags which list such information as blood types, immunization records and religion. It merely carried the inscription 144 2669-USA.

Brought Home

Doughboy McCoy brought the tag home in 1919, along with a decoration for gallantry. He came out unscathed and lived a full life. He died in 1962.

In 1944, his son Tom, now 42, went into the Navy and was told by his father who gave him the tag: "I ask only one thing. I want you to bring it back to me personally."

Minnesota Swift Plant Will Close

South St. Paul, Minn. (P) — Swift & Co., announced Thursday it is closing its largest meatpacking facility here Nov. 29.

A spokesman for the firm said the plant had run a deficit of more than $5 million the past 10 years.

Swift employs 1,900 hourly and 550 salaried workers here, he said, and it has an annual payroll of between $22 million and $23 million.

The announcement said the plant, which started in 1897, had been profitable until 1959, then went in the red. Old, inefficient facilities and therefore high operating costs were the chief factors in the loss, the company said, adding:

"In fulfilling management's obligations to Swift shareholders to operate a profitable business, we could not continue with this kind of a loss record."

Swift is reported planning to close some 200 plants in the country.

Army Says 'No' To Constitution's Being Given Out

San Francisco (UPI) — The acting commander of the Army's Presidio post said Friday members of a peace group cannot distribute free copies of the U.S. Constitution on post as requested.

The G. I. Civilian Alliance for Peace had asked permission to pass out the documents, which it obtained from the Government Printing Office, on Saturday.

Col. Jack R. Looney responded that the Army will be "most happy" to receive the pamphlets at the provost marshal's office and would "assure maximum distribution" within 72 hours.

But Looney said the peace group members could not pass out the pamphlets on post. Looney said this "would interfere with both vehicular and pedestrian traffic and other necessary post operations."

The younger McCoy served Navy's amphibious forces and took part in the invasion of Okinawa. The dog tag went with him and came out with him. Young McCoy and his unit were also commended.

Recalls the younger McCoy, now a livestock dealer in the Omaha Stockyards: "The first thing I did when I got home was to reach in my pocket and hand the tag to my father. I did like he saked me to do. I brought it back."

Retirement

The tag went in retirement during the Korean War, but Records in the State Adjutant General's office here show that 285 Nebraskans have died in the Vietnam conflict as of this Memorial Day.

Though the city of Omaha has had more of its young men killed, 58, than any other town, tragedy has hit every area of the state.

The list of towns from which the fallen young men have come includes such widely separated places as Falls City and Chadron, South Sioux City and Scottsbluff, Trenton and Theadford.

Lincoln has lost 23 young men.

A breakdown of them, 180, of the Nebraskans were in the Army, while 69 were in the Marine Corps, 22 in the Navy and 14 in the Air Force.

Ninety-eight of them were married at the time of their death and left widows.

Hruska Calls For Support Of Peace Plan

York (UPI) — The American people can hasten the end of the war in Vietnam by supporting President Nixon's eight-point peace initiative, Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., said here Friday.

In remarks prepared for a Memorial Day address at Greenwood Cemetery, Hruska said:

"As we pause today to honor the memory of those who gave their lives in the service of freedom, we can give meaning to that honor by pledging ourselves to united support of the president in his unstinting efforts to bring peace to Southeast Asia."

"But it must be an honorable peace — a peace as the president has said which we can live with and be proud of. It must be a peace which assures that our men who have fought in Vietnam will not have fought in vain and that our men who died in Vietnam will not have died in vain."

And, Hruska added, it must be a lasting peace.

"The president is determined that the younger brothers of our soldiers will not have to fight in the future in another Vietnam, some place else in the world."

Summary of Conditions

A deepening storm center will be over southeastern North Dakota Saturday morning and over central Minnesota by evening. Large amounts of moisture which have moved northward from the Gulf will be available for precipitation Saturday morning.

As the storm center moves eastward, southerly winds will increase over eastern Nebraska and western Iowa Saturday. A Pacific-type cool front will move east to central South Dakota, central Nebraska and northwestern Kansas by Saturday morning and will move to northwestern Kansas by Saturday morning and will move to northwestern Iowa and southeastern Nebraska by evening.

Through Saturday night, skies will be variably cloudy and temperatures will be cooler. There is a chance of showers and thunderstorms mostly early Saturday morning, recurring again Saturday night over most of Iowa and Nebraska. Skies will be partly cloudy Sunday.

when Pat Collins of Omaha, a family friend of the McCoy's, was drafted two years ago, Tom McCoy gave Collins the tag with the same admonishment he had received from his father: "Bring it back in person. I don't want to have it shipped back in personal effects."

Collins, 27, served a year in Vietnam and was wounded by sniper fire.

"I probably wore this tag more than I wore my own," he said. "If it wasn't around my neck, it was in my pocket or my billfold."

Recently discharged from the Army, Collins remembers much the same homecoming as did the younger McCoy.

"I brought it back to Tom and handed it to him," Collins said. "I guess I kept my promise."

has instituted a policy under which the American and state flags both are flown at half staff at the capitol and governor's mansion each time a Nebraskan dies in Vietnam.

Friday the flags were at half staff for two Nebraskans whose deaths were reported this week, Army PFC. Jerry J. Kocanda III of Omaha and PFC Lee A. Napier of Orchard.

CAMPER DUMPED . . . on top of car in crash.

Vehicles Collide On City Street; 4 Persons Hurt

A car-truck accident at 66th and Vine Friday evening injured four people slightly, police said.

Mary Lee Vosta, 5401 Orchard, and her two children, Mark, 5, and Vance, 4, were also taken to the hospital for treatment of cuts and bruises. The accident, police said, could have been more serious since the camper body tipped over on top of the car during the collision.

No one suffered serious injuries, hospital authorities said.

Diane Davies Said Improved From Injuries

Diane Davies, 21, injured in a four-car accident April 27 regained consciousness Friday "to a degree," hospital authorities said.

Miss Davies, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Louis T. Davies, 3035 Sheridan Blvd., was said to have become semi-conscious for the first time since the collision of a car, driven by her brother Louis J., 19, and a vehicle driven by Frank Sedoris, 33, 1035 No. 52nd, at 27th and Van Dorn.

The Davies vehicle then struck another vehicle driven by Pamela J. Holloway, 27, 3230 So. 39th, head-on, causing the car following her, driven by John V. Gabelhouse, 22, 7200 Lexington, to collide with the rear of the Holloway car.

The Davies car then continued off the street and struck a tree.

"This is the most improvement in her condition since the accident," a hospital spokesman said after listing Miss Davies in "good condition."

Miss Davies' brother suffered minor injuries and was released from the hospital shortly after. No one else was injured in the incident.

Eight Women Die

Fukushima, Japan (UPI) — Eight farmers' wives were killed and eight others injured when the truck in which they were riding overturned and was struck by a passing car, police said.

Wounded Inmate Taken Off Critical List At Hospital

A hospital spokesman from St. Elizabeth Hospital said Friday that Robert Litz, the inmate stabbed Wednesday at the State Penitentiary during the movie "Where Were You When the Lights Went Out?" was taken off the critical list Friday, but still remained in the intensive care ward of the hospital.

Officials from the penitentiary said they were still investigating the incident Friday and had not discovered who had stabbed Litz and then left the homemade knife at the scene.

Litz was stabbed in the neck "after the lights went out."

Fight Occurred Outside Of Bar

Lincoln police said Friday that early reports to them on a brawl at Myron's Bar, 140 No. 15th, late Thursday night were exaggerated.

The fight, police said, was outside the bar, not inside as previously reported.

The mistake was made due to the fact that one of the participants in the fight was knocked through the front window of Myron's Bar.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

All the graduation speeches have now about been made, or they very soon will be, and thousands of young men and women are setting out to establish themselves in life. They will now become a part of the society from which they were at least somewhat separated while engaged in their academic pursuits.

They will become a part of the free enterprise system, of the democratic political system and of the open social system which makes up this great nation of ours. While in their academic world, they may have come to have a great many reservations and anxieties over those various systems.

But now that they will be making for themselves a life and family of their own, certain truths are about to dawn on them. They may have wondered about it before, but there is something they can do to change the world in which they live, short of total rebellion.

They will find that in business, there is room for the individual of integrity and imagination — room even for the individual with compassion. If anything, the man of compassion will find himself in demand in the business world.

In general, the private sector of the economy has awakened to the human problems that challenge our nation and seek to do something about it. When the chips are really down, free enterprise knows that it cannot ignore human need and it does not intend to do so.

And while it may not have always seemed so, there has always been a demand for integrity in the business world. Not every man and woman with a job are interested solely in the salary or other rewards they receive.

There are those who find it rewarding to provide for people at the lowest cost possible the goods and services that are needed for an agreeable standard of living. There is dishonesty in business, to be sure, but it is the exception and not the standard by which one is measured.

As these young people enter more into the mainstream of society, they will find a vast majority of people whose standards and ambitions for the welfare of humanity are not less than their own. They will find that the average person is not the greedy and uninterested individual he may have been suspected of being.

One thing he may find, this graduate, is a lack of understanding or knowledge in this new world in which he is about to move. While the American people are well meant, they are not always as informed and reasoning as they should be.

This is one thing that is likely to disturb the young person as he seeks to find his own place in the scheme of things. Too often, people will be found reacting on the basis of misconceptions, rumor, emotion or, perhaps, even prejudice.

Still, these young people, we suspect, will not find in the years ahead the disenchantment with things that they might have had or felt in their years of higher education. A new group will come along to fill the halls of learning and to challenge the existing state of affairs.

But those who now leave these halls, we believe, will not become points or elements of total conflict within society. It is not that they will be swallowed up in the hopelessness of the situation, but they will find the situation not to be hopeless.

They will not find perfection, but they will find much more to their liking than they had thought and will come to a much better understanding of that with which they still disagree. And in understanding the weaknesses of the world, they will be much better equipped to contribute to the correction of those weaknesses.

Animals Moving Up In The People World

NEW YORK — Labor groups which continually strike for higher pay and shorter hours had better watch their cotton-pickin' steps!

Scientists across the country are at work training animals to do the jobs of men. If their efforts pan out, the auto worker could one day be eased into retirement by the pigeon (an excellent assembly line inspector, says experts), the newspaper punch-presser could be replaced by the chimpanzee (who punches with deadly accuracy), and the junior executive could succumb to a tank-maintained porpoise (which has a brain nine times the size of man, and the ability to communicate).

Scoff not, strikers. Science has proven that, potentially, many of our feathered and furred pets and enemies can "do a job" as well as, and considerably cheaper than, men. Or even women.

For example, chimpanzees already have been trained to be exemplary fruit pickers, and they know how to operate non-automated telephone switchboards.

Pigeons have been turned into qualified assembly line inspectors. They have been taught particularly to inspect drug capsules and transistors, and to reject any product that is imperfect in shape or color.

So what if they can't write their own names? They can be assigned numbers as acceptable to a computer as the next man.

Pigeons also have been trained to read the handwriting on bank checks, and one scientist claims that they would be far more economical in a small bank than a scanning machine.

The porpoise — well, everybody who is intelligent knows how intelligent the porpoise is. He can eventually be trained to do anything a man can do underwater, and he can do it better than a man can. Any number of experts are now working on teaching porpoises not only to fetch-and-carry, but to "talk." At the moment, too, porpoises can detect certain noises which are important in some industries.

Other animals do other chores. Beavers can do construction jobs, and cats can conduct televised physical fitness exercise programs.

Possibly the most awesome animal of all is the rat. "Rats have outwitted men for centuries," says expert Earl Geiger. "Rats have killed more people than all the wars in history. They've ruined more grain in India than she imports, have started one of every four fires of unknown origin, have gnawed holes in dams to start floods, have jumped three feet high and squeezed through half-inch openings, and have swum half a mile under water before surfacing to breathe."

Obviously, a rodent of this kind could — if trained properly — competently take over work in espionage, defense (both military and naval) and certain forms of police duty.

So, labor, take it easy on your demands.

Unless you want a dirty rat (or something else) to get your job...

An Unwanted Convention

A week from this coming Monday, a group of some 1,500 people, most of them young, will be meeting somewhere to plot further disorder in the United States. Where they will meet is unknown simply because they have found no campus that wants them. They are the Students for a Democratic Society, a militant organization whose name hardly fits at all.

The leadership is in the upper-20's age bracket and not attending any college classes. Even by word of this leadership, the group is bent on the destruction of society as we know it today in the United States.

It has planned this summer to enter the ranks of business where it would hope to build up an alliance with the "oppressed" working class of men and women. Among other things, it may not find too much sympathy among a working class that can often be found in the five-figure income category. This is to say nothing of the SDS Marxist philosophy which has never gained any strength among the working men and women of our nation.

SDS is understandably not wanted on any campus. It has been a part of student uprisings across the land which have cost millions of dollars in property damage and created a serious loss of valuable academic time in the universities.

This organization, from every report one sees on it, is far more concerned with the political ideology of the nation than with any moral issues such as the draft or the Vietnam war which it uses as a pretext. It plays against the accumulation of wealth, against the acquisition of authority, against the free enterprise system. It does not seek to correct the shortcomings of our society, but rather, to replace that society with something totally foreign and totalitarian. We would have to wonder about the mentality of any university that did want to provide SDS with a place at which it might hold its convention.

Police And The Citizens

The combined efforts of Lincoln citizens and our alert police force this month resulted in the arrests of two separate gangs of armed robbers and forgers. These were out-of-town crooks, come to Lincoln to ply their trade in an atmosphere in which they thought they would not be detected.

After the arrests of the above-mentioned heavies — with the welcome assistance in one instance from California officials — the Lincoln police followed up with apprehending an escapee from a federal penitentiary in Texas and a parole violator from Louisiana.

One of those arrested made a statement in which he said he considered Lincoln to be a "hick town." Considering law-enforcement, a hick town we are not.

If criminals think there is no deterrent here, experience will prove them wrong. Not every time, of course, but in most instances, the Lincoln Police Department — by virtue of its leadership, training and standards — and in concert with a citizenry we consider exceptional, will deal moving fits to those who consider themselves above the law.

Law-enforcement officers have been subject to a lot of publicized abuse lately and it's probably natural — law-enforcement is a "people" business. But we are fortunate in Lincoln. Some of our public-minded citizens can talk about more law and order and building a better police department, but all the time they are talking, they should consider that we have a good foundation to build on.

Administration Decision On Okinawa's Disposal Important To Japanese In Method Of Approach

TOKYO — Although the demand of the Japanese for the reversion of Okinawa to their administrative control is Japan's foremost political issue, and one which reverberates with all sort of implications for the future of American-Japanese relations and Pacific security, the Sato government says it has as yet been given no inkling by the Nixon administration of what the United States might be prepared to do. That is why Foreign Minister Aichi is off to Washington this week, and why the Japanese are relieved that he will get at least a brief interview with President Nixon just before the latter's departure for his meeting with South Vietnamese President Thieu.

Japanese officials profess to be reasonably confident that they will be able to negotiate a satisfactory reversion of Okinawa — which, to them, means a specific date and the application of the Japanese-American security treaty to the island base. But since that means the removal of American B-52's and nuclear weapons, an undercurrent of uneasiness about Washington's intentions is plainly visible in Tokyo.

The Sato government hopes, therefore, that at an absolute minimum the Nixon administration will inform Aichi next week if it has been firmly decided that the United States cannot go all the way with Japanese demands. And although Mr. Nixon's attitudes so far have not reassured Tokyo of his sympathy for Japan (Secretary of Commerce Maurice Stans has just drawn a sour press here for his blunt demands that the Japanese restrict textile exports to the United States), it also appears to be in the American interest that such an "early warning" be given, if the Japanese are to be disappointed on Okinawa.

So burning is this issue in Japanese politics that Premier Sato and his Liberal Democratic party have been forced to radiate confidence that they can negotiate a satisfactory reversion. Hence, a rebuff, if it comes, will be doubly devastating to the emotional Japanese people — nationalistic, largely pacifist, just beginning to feel their regained strength, and — in view of many analysts here — in search of some more convincing "national purpose" than they now perceive.

Okinawa is an issue upon which, Japanese politicians agree, the Sato cabinet might easily fall; or, alternatively, upon which the Liberal Democrats might suffer serious losses in the 1970 elections. Both prospects would become even more likely if Sato suffers the personal embarrassment of having to leave the White House empty-handed on Okinawa, during his scheduled visit next fall. Already, there is speculation in Japan on the wording of a Nixon-Sato communiqué that would announce reversion.

So if a rebuff is forthcoming, Aichi ought to be informed next week, even if secretly. Then, at one extreme, the Sato visit might even be discreetly canceled or delayed; at the other, the Liberal Democrats at least could begin to prepare WASHINGTON — At the end of May, the headmaster wants written reports on the boys' progress. It is a vicious system. No boy can be adequately summed up in a few grades or a few scribbled comments but until the new left creates the millenium, rules are rules. And so, here they are.

1. Richard Nixon: Richard has shown remarkable talent this semester for public speaking and should be encouraged to develop this skill next year, perhaps by taking Oratory 301 (TV without cue cards). Unhappily his development in philosophy has been disappointing, possibly because Richard has still not decided what he wants to be. Recommend intensified guidance counseling for next semester.

2. Everett Dirksen: Everett continues to do extremely well in theater, but we must do something next semester about the deterioration in his conduct. He has been uncharacteristically short-tempered this semester and has shown an unhappy tendency to be dictatorial in his relations with Richard. We should ask ourselves whether Everett is truly happy in his present environment. Perhaps we should send a note home to his mother.

3. Teddy Kennedy: Teddy continues to show great strength in travel, preparation of papers and charisma. He is undoubtedly ready for advanced placement in presidential charismatics, but we should weigh quite seriously the possibility that pushing him ahead too fast may be damaging to his development. The strain of excessive pressure may have been responsible for his rude flareup at Everett this semester, which has resulted in his conduct grade's being dropped to C. Until this year Teddy has been a straight A man in conduct. A note to his mother suggesting a cutback in his allowance may be indicated here.

4. Walter Hinkel: Walter's newly discovered interest in alligators is to be commended and encouraged. His A in zoology should be a reproof to all of us who argued at the semester's start that he was not the kind of boy who belonged in this school.

5. Melvin Laird: Melvin has a remarkable ability to apply himself to any subject assigned him. Though this was his first semester in armaments shop, he had his hand up so frequently that no one else could get a chance to talk. Melvin's spendthrift habits, however, show a thoughtless disregard for others.

6. Edmund Muskie: Edmund's F in sports reflects the lack of competitive spirit which keeps him from making the contribution of which he is capable. His failure to appear in the ring for his scheduled match with Teddy for the lightweight championship of the Senate suggests a timidity about having his brains knocked out that is altogether out of place here.

7. Eugene McCarthy: Since Eugene burned his report card last year, he has spent most of his time sitting under the sycamore on the quadrangle composing poetry. His poetry shows promise, but Eugene must be reminded that poets ride in subways nowadays while the novelists go by Cadillac. Suggest that Eugene be strongly urged next semester to write a novel.

8. J. Edgar Hoover: Edgar continues to be a careful methodical worker. As his grades indicate, he should have been graduated thirty-five years ago. However, if Edgar wishes to continue here he should show more willingness to conform to the behavior standards of the other boys.

9. William Rogers: It would be nice to see William put his hand up more often in class.

10. Spiro Agnew: Spiro still keeps to himself far too much, perhaps out of undue sensitivity to the hazing he received when he first matriculated here at the start of the semester. His habit of sneaking out after "lights out" and turning up on the Johnny Carson show should perhaps be encouraged, as he shows a considerable talent for light-television entertainment that might one day carry him to fame and fortune.

JACKIE ROBINSON

They Had A Dream

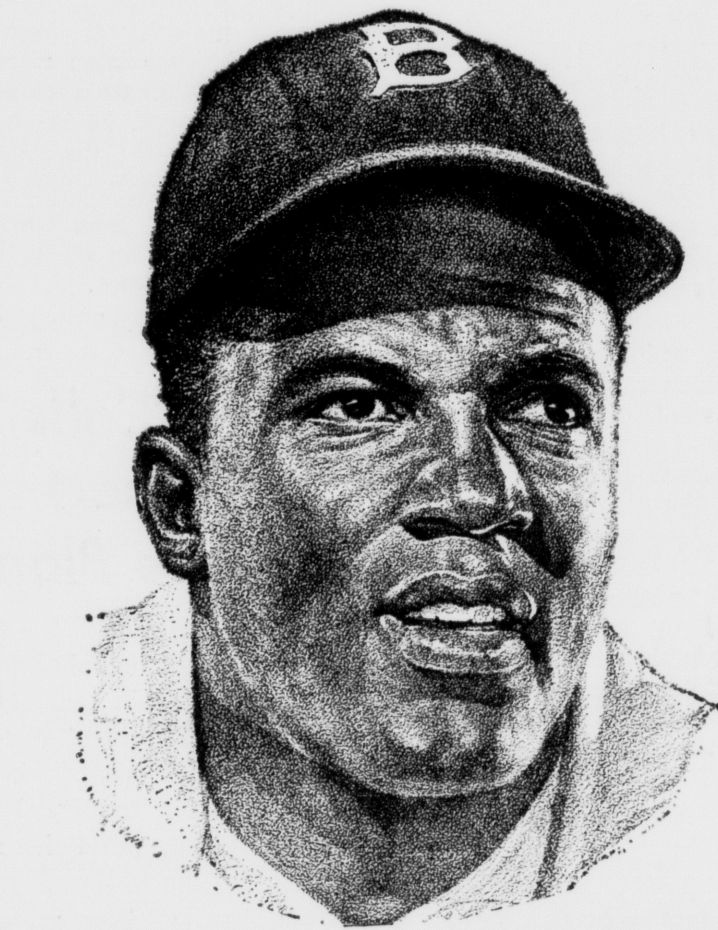

Jackie Robinson was the first Negro to break the color barrier of big league baseball. He got his break because one man felt discrimination was wrong.

He became a baseball immortal for another reason, however. Robinson was good, and he proved it.

Signed by the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1947, Robinson led the National League in his first year both in stolen bases and in double plays, batted .297 and had a fielding average of .989.

The Dodgers won the National League pennant that year, but lost the series to the New York Yankees. Robinson became the first Negro to play in the series, and he did so well he was named Rookie of the Year.

Robinson did even better in 1948, and in 1949 he won the National League batting championship with an average of .342 and led the league in stolen bases, 37. Sportswriters voted him the league's most valuable player.

In 10 years with the Dodgers, Robinson compiled impressive records as a hitter, base stealer and fielder. He played first, second and third base during his career.

He also played in six World Series. In 1955, when the Dodgers defeated the Yankees, Robinson who was a creaky 36 was credited with sparking his team to victory.

One sportswriter put it this way:

"Jackie Robinson, forgetting for this day, at least, about the silver in his hair and the age in his legs, rallied the Dodgers almost single-handedly from the coma that had gripped them the first two days of baseball's World Series. He batted and fielded and ran them to an 8-3 victory..."

That was one of the high points in Robinson's career. The next year, faced by the facts of age, Robinson quit the game.

In 1962 the baseball world accorded Robinson its greatest accolade by electing him to the Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N.Y.

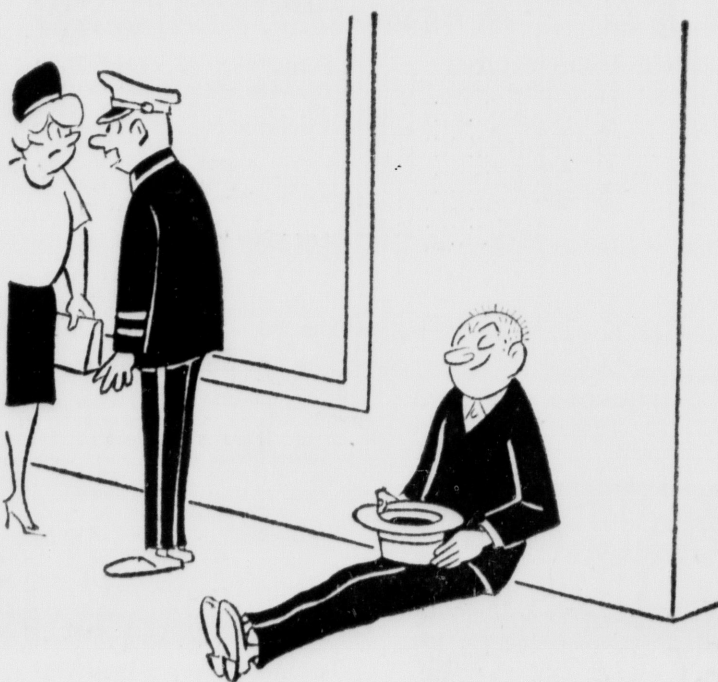

John Roosevelt Robinson's climb to the top began on a tenant farm in Cairo, Ga., where he was born on Jan. 31, 1919. Deserted by his father, Robinson's mother moved her brood of five children to California when Robinson was only 16 months of age.

In 1945, Branch Rickey, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, decided to break down the color bar in big league baseball. He chose Robinson for the experiment.

Stepsons Won't Call Him Dad

By ROBERT PETERSON
Q. — "I was a widow and six weeks ago remarried at age 45. My three teenage sons are polite to my husband, but they seem to have gotten together and decided they absolutely will not call him Dad. Instead they call him Joe — his given name. He has told them they must call him Dad and despite my pleading with them, they refuse. They're stubborn and so is Joe. A real rift has developed and I'm so nervous I don't know what to do. Any suggestions?"
A. — Calm down and don't insist on an immediate solution. The boys are probably holding out because they haven't yet decided whether they really like Joe. When they get better acquainted, and assuming they like him, they'll probably be willing to call him Dad. Explore the possibility of a nickname or title that might be acceptable to all. For instance, if Joe likes boats maybe he'd like the boys to call him Captain.

Q. — "I'd like to meet the widow you quoted who says she can buy a new car or a new mink coat but can't buy a husband. Who says she can't? I'm an old tom cat with a little hair left and a lot of big ideas. I don't mind saying I'm here for the highest bidder. Tell her to look me up. She can even have me for a free 90-day trial. After we're wed I'll be a perfect husband so long as she gives me two or three nights off each week and enough pocket money for drinks at my favorite tavern."
A. — This isn't a matrimonial bureau and we don't keep names and addresses on file. There are probably some widows so desperate they'd tangle with your type, but I doubt it. Most widows would prefer a four-legged tom cat who would stay home nights and have more reliable drinking habits.
Q. — "You had your nerve writing that any amateurs at a senior citizen center could make better music than the Beatles. Are you unaware that in just six years the Beatles have become millionaires and founders of a new era in music? I'm 17 years old and with it — not half dead like you and other old fog heads who don't dig really good music."

A. — Okay, maybe it's music the Beatles play and maybe it sounds good to millions of youngsters. But I'm past 40 and was taught that good music was inspiring, pleasing to the ear, and the result of disciplined musicianship. The only inspiring, pleasing notes I've heard from the Beatles is the news that they're retiring and want no more publicity and attention from the public.
Memo to Mrs. J. D. of Cincinnati, O.: Retirement for the average woman means half as much income and twice as much husband. If you can't face these two inevitabilities when your husband retires next month, better scout up a job that will add to family income and deduct from family togetherness.

Meet Star Carrier Roger Lewis

Profits from his paper route at Trenton are helping Roger Lewis to pursue some of his favorite activities. His fishing equipment, bow and arrow and a bicycle have all been purchased with his own money.

But money is not the only reason why Roger likes being a carrier salesman for The Lincoln Star. He also enjoys the many friends he has made among his customers.

A student at Trenton Grade School, Roger keeps up above average grades.

Roger's extracurricular activities include photography and participating in the youth fellowship group at the Church of God.

Young men interested in becoming carrier salesmen for The Lincoln Star should contact the State Carrier Dept., The Lincoln Star, Lincoln, Neb. 68501.

His parents say that having a paper route has taught their son responsibility and promptness and think that other boys could also benefit from this type of work.

Oil Workers Burn, Loot In Dutch Colony

Willemstad, Curacao (AP) — About 5,000 striking oil refinery workers swarmed into this Caribbean resort city Friday, burning and looting stores and gasoline stations and threatening whites.

Royal Dutch marines were called into quell the disorders after police lost control of the mob, but the Dutch news agency, ANP, reported that the situation was worsening.

Thick plumes of black smoke rose from the center of the city and its outskirts, lined with quaint Dutch-style houses that flank Anna Bay where cruise ships make frequent calls.

Curacao, a Dutch colony, is a duty-free port and the shops in Willemstad cater to the tourist trade.

The main issue in the strike was wages, but the demonstration quickly took on racial aspects as the rioters concentrated their attack on white-owned businesses. Curacao is 80 to 90% Negro.

One labor leader was shot in the chest. Seven other persons were wounded by police bullets.

In the Hague, the Dutch government issued a terse statement announcing that the marines had moved in because police were unable to maintain effective public order. The government termed the disorders "serious."

About 350 marines are normally stationed on the island. The Dutch destroyer, Amsterdam, with a crew of 280 men, is stationed in the area. It was not known however, whether the Amsterdam had moved to Willemstad.

Paulsen Sunk; Fitness Effort Now In Drink

Chicago (AP) — Comedian Pat Paulsen kicked off his physical fitness campaign Friday by starting to row a boat from Chicago's lake front to Sturgis, Mich., but his craft sank outside the breakwater.

Paulsen, who said that only he can lead America to an increased awareness of physical fitness, started across Lake Michigan from the Monroe Street Harbor. His craft was followed by another boat loaded with TV and radio people.

Paulsen's announced goal was the main docking facility of Sturgis. He got as far as the breakwater. On the other side, where the water was a bit rougher, the boat sank, dumping the comedian in the choppy water. He was picked up by a motorboat.

Paulsen was not hurt.

Council of Churches May Seek Closer Ties To Vatican

London (UPI) — The World Council of Churches (WCC) may include a place for Roman Catholic Church membership when it reorganizes by 1972.

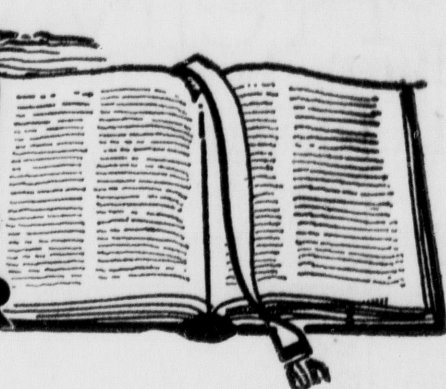

Eugene Carson Blake, the American general secretary of the 235-member church organization, says the setting aside of "Catholicism" would enable the WCC to work more closely with the Vatican even if Catholics do not formally join the alliance.

"We are not satisfied with the facilities for our interchanges with the Roman Catholic Church," Blake told United Press International, in a recent interview in London. "The amount of our commitment already requires even more commitment and a change to accommodate it."

The WCC central committee, the chief policy making body, meets in Canterbury, England, Aug. 12-22 to review progress toward the restructuring ordered by last year's general assembly in Uppsala, Sweden.

LEST WE forget

God has a destiny for America, and only eyes of Faith can read that destiny. Were it not so, all those who have, and will pay with their lives the last full measure, will have died in vain.

We need only to look at our cemeteries to have our manhood shocked and our Americanism awakened. Our allegiance would be strengthened by that look. We can never recompense for the supreme sacrifice and heartache the spilling of each drop of blood caused. But every American should bow his head in shame when he dares not to salute our Grand Old Flag.

Please let us, this day, rededicate ourselves and say a benediction for all those who have and will lay themselves, in our behalf, between our wonderful country and all her foes.

Lest We Forget.

Pretty Coeds Become Brides At Friday Weddings

MRS. RICHARD K. JOHNSON

The chancel of the First Lutheran Church was appointed with tall arrangements of white gladioli for the Friday evening, May 30, wedding of Miss Linda Cathrine Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leland V. Johnson, and Richard K. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Johnson. The Rev. Richard H. Englund read the lines of the 7 o'clock service.

Miss Sherri Koehler of Omaha, the honor attendant, and the bridesmaids, Miss Nancy Schneider and Miss Lynne Gardner, wore lace-trimmed frocks of organza in tones of delphinium blue, with ribbon banded, wide-brimmed organza hats. They carried basket bouquets of daisies.

Serving Mr. Johnson as best man was Bruce Williamson of Johnson, and the groomsmen were Joseph Gleason of Minden, and Michael Morell. Seating the guests were Dennis Johnson of Denver, Gary Viquain and James Allgood.

Designed in the shirtwaist mode, the bride's gown was fashioned of white silk organza smoothed over taffeta. Venise lace edged the high neckline, and the lace overlaid wide blue satin ribbon extending from the shoulders to the snug cuffs of the full, organza sleeves. The satin ribbon encircled the high waist. The slim skirt and, combined with lace, extended the length of the detachable train. Her illusion veil was held by a halo bandeau of pale blue and white organza blossoms, and she carried a cascade of white orchids.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson will live at 5430 Ervin St. Both are students at Nebraska Wesleyan University, where the bride is a member of Phi Mu, and Mr. Johnson's fraternity is Zeta Psi.

Topiary trees of white Majestic daisies and foliage were placed at either side of the altar and lined the processional aisle in the Cathedral Of The Risen Christ, Friday afternoon, May 30, for the marriage of Miss JoAnn Dean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Dean, to James Michael Rierden, son of Mrs. James Rierden. The 2 o'clock ceremony was solemnized by Msgr. C. J. Crowley.

As her sister's maid of honor, Miss Nancy Jane Dean wore a slim, floor-length frock of orchid-toned silk touched with lace. Frocks in petal pink were the bridesmaids, Miss Peggy Klotz, Mapleton, Iowa, Miss Judi Switzer, Fullerton, Calif., Miss Kathy Rierden, Miss Beverly Dean and Mrs. Tim Nelson, and the junior bridesmaid, Miss Linda Dean.

Bill Rierden served his brother as best man, and the groomsmen and ushers were Bob Holmes, Bill Strateman and Bob Griego, all of Omaha; Bob Best, McCook; John Hurd, Bill Zajic, Bill Biggs and Rick Schmidt.

Guipure lace in a daisy motif trimmed the bride's slender gown of white peau de soie. The shoulder-wide yoke of lace created a jewel neckline, and the molded bodice was designed with elbow sleeves above the narrow, lace-bordered skirt and detachable, cotillion train. A face-framing bandeau of lace daisies held to the head her silk illusion veil.

A member of Kappa Kappa Gamma, Mrs. Rierden will receive her degree Saturday from the University of Nebraska, where the bridegroom will enter the College of Law in the fall. Mr. Rierden's fraternity is Phi Delta Theta.

MRS. JAMES MICHAEL RIERDEN

We Hear That

Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Pallesen, Jr., announce the arrival of a son, Edward, on Sunday, May 25, at St. Elizabeth Hospital. The baby's mother is the former Lorraine Sysel, the daughter of Mrs. Edward Sysel of Lincoln. Included in the young man's family circle, also, is his brother Michael, and his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Pallesen of Lexington. Mrs. Pallesen, Jr., is a graduate of Doane College and holds a Master's degree from the University of Nebraska from where Mr. Pallesen also was graduated and from where he received a degree from the College of Law.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bornemeier and their daughter, Janet of Seattle, Wash., were guests last week at the home of Mr. Bornemeier's aunts, Mrs. James K. Veach, and Mr. Veach—and Mrs. Grace Bornemeier.

Bridal Attendants

Miss Carol Lynn Senff, University of Nebraska coed, has revealed that her marriage to Donald E. Knop will take place on Saturday, June 7.

Attending her twin sister as maid of honor will be Miss Cheryl Senff, and Mr. Knop's sister, Mrs. Fred Mahler of Coal Valley, Ill., will be the matron of honor. The bridesmaid will be Miss Elizabeth Amick of Papillion, and attending her sister as junior bridesmaid will be Miss June Senff.

Kenny Seipold will serve Mr. Knop as best man, and seating the guests will be Vern Knop of Council Bluffs, Iowa, Woody Jones of Omaha, and David Duchek, Dorchester. The groomsmen will be Fred Mahler, Coal Valley, Ill., Gary Copperstone, Malvern, Iowa, and Larry Snyder.

The bride-to-be is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Garland Senff of York. Her fiancé, a graduate of the Nebraska Technical School at Millard, is the son of Everett Knop of Malvern, Iowa.

Naming the members of her bridal party this morning is Miss Terri Billiard, who will become the bride of Kenneth A. Miller on Sunday, June 8.

A graduate of the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Zeta Tau Alpha, Miss Billiard has named Miss Loretta Tubbs as her maid of honor for the afternoon wedding, which will take place at St. Paul Methodist Church.

Awards For Junior Club Members

When the Junior Woman's Club of Lincoln met for its traditional May luncheon on Wednesday at The Knolls, a very surprised — and honored — member was Mrs. R. Neale Copple who was presented a special award for her outstanding service to the organization. Also honored was Mrs. Ken Pohlman who was presented a silver tray as the "Clubwoman Of The Year."

Following the luncheon, which brought the club's season of activities to a close, the newly-elected officers were installed. They include Mrs. Carl Glenn, president; Mrs. Roger Olson, first vice president; Mrs.

Don Hansen, second vice president; Mrs. Don Falos, secretary; and Mrs. Ted Cox, treasurer.

Annual Meeting

The annual business meeting of the Nebraska Art Association will be held Friday morning at the Sheldon Gallery on the University of Nebraska campus. The meeting will begin at 10:30 o'clock with Mrs. David Dow presiding.

Bride-Elect Honored

University of Nebraska coed, Miss Margaret Ross, who is planning a June 23 wedding, was the guest of honor on Wednesday evening, May 14, when Mrs. Glenn Wagner and Mrs. Jess Webster were hostesses at the home of Mrs. Wagner.

Twenty-four guests were invited to the dessert-supper and presented a pottery shower to Miss Ross, who will become the bride of Larry Honeycutt.

IN Suburbia

"Whoopie!" suddenly is a very common suburban sound, echoing through homes, yards, streets and any other place that "liberated" students are to be found. For three months, they can forget their roles as pupils and be just plain kids, with baseball, swimming, and other such pursuits the main items of worry.

Saying about the same thing as the youngsters' "hooray, it's summer" but with a bit more restraint, Henry James put it this way: "Summer afternoon — summer afternoon; to me those have always been the two most beautiful words in the English language."

As for many other Lincoln high schoolers, the end of school this year marked the end of high school for Larry Willemsen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Willemsen, as he and his senior classmates graduated from Northeast High School on Tuesday evening, May 27.

After the graduation ceremonies, there were a number of guests at the Willemsen's Northeast Heights home to offer their congratulations to Larry. The visitors included Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Klein of Seward; Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Klein and Mr. and Mrs. John Willemsen of David City; Mr. and Mrs. William Reverts of Papillion and Mr. and Mrs. Val Zitek of Lincoln.

It's a dog's life, or more particularly, a dog's birthday party, complete with a "special" cake. We didn't find out whether that cake was "special" for the dog or for the people involved, but we do know that the second birthday of "Terry" did not go unobserved. "Terry" is the M.B.F. representative in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Peterson and family in Wedgewood Manor. (M.B.F., in case you were wondering, stand for Man's Best Friend.)

But the D.B.F.s get their share of fun, too. (D.B.F. is of course Dog's Best Friend.) Mr. and Mrs. Peterson took a mid-May week to fly to Washington, D.C., along with Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hampton. Mr. Peterson and Mr. Hampton attended meetings while Mrs. Peterson and Mrs. Hampton enjoyed the sights.

Shower

Miss Virginia Zuniga, a University of Nebraska graduate student from Costa Rica, was the honored guest last Monday evening at a personal shower for which Miss Ligia Quiros was hostess.

The 20 guests were invited to the home of Mrs. Robert Gilmore and included university classmates of the bride-to-be.

The wedding of Miss Zuniga and Dell Wehling of Beatrice, will take place Saturday, May 31, at the Cathedral Of The Risen Christ.

Abby

DEAR ABBY: My problem concerns two dear friends whose company we genuinely enjoy. They are a father and son, who together tip the scales at 700 pounds.

They were here last week, and immediately following dinner they both literally FELL onto my couch. It is a sturdy piece of furniture, but with this enormous weight hitting it all at once — well, the springs must now be retied and the decking replaced.

Abby, how can I tactfully tell these people to please distribute their heft a bit more evenly? I am not going to tell them what happened, but I don't want it to happen again.

Parades, Prayers Fill Memorial Day

By The Associated Press

Parades and prayers for the living and dead in the nation's wars, plus holiday outings and special sports events, marked the 102nd observance Friday of Memorial Day.

Vigils and protests against the war in Vietnam made an impact this year on the three-day holiday.

President Nixon, spending the long weekend with his family at Key Biscayne, Fla., urged Americans not only to honor our fighting men, past and present, but to pray for peace throughout the world.

At Arlington National Cemetery outside Washington, D.C., Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, laying a wreath at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, said of Vietnam: "Today, the battle continues but the enemy's thrust has been contained."

Antiwar groups in many communities read the names of 35,000 Americans who have lost their lives in the current conflict.

At Rochester, N.Y., the local Council of Churches began its vigil at 6 a.m. on the church lawn, with volunteers reading the names of war dead from the city and its outlying areas.

At Torrington, Conn., two literary figures read from the list of war dead during a 24-hour vigil. They were Pulitzer Prize winners William Styron, the author, and Arthur Miller, the playwright.

In Philadelphia, about 20 men and women stood at the entrance of the national cemetery reading names of Vietnam war dead. They wore black armbands with white numerals "35,000."

Similar vigils were held by church groups in Buffalo,

N.Y., interdenominational groups at Kansas City, and students at the University of Chicago.

At Swarthmore, Pa., David Carroll, 17, a member of a high school band, refused to play "Taps" during holiday ceremonies, contending it was against his conscience.

In New York City, about 5 parades sponsored by patriotic organizations were held in the five boroughs. Twenty-seven parades were listed for the Borough of Queens. Staten Island the city's smallest borough, had three parades.

At the United Nations, where Bruce Mayrock, 20, a Columbia University student immolated himself Thursday over concern for the secessionist African state of Biafra, a group of native Biafrans picketed, then paraded through midtown. Their Memorial Day observance marked the second anniversary of Biafra's break-away from Nigeria.

At Scottsbluff, Neb., leaders of veterans organizations gathered for memorial services at Hiram Scott College at which they criticized what they called "the irresponsible minority of college students who wish to disrupt and destroy the basis of our democratic society."

In addition to baseball games and other sport events, the day marked the 53rd running of the Indianapolis 500 auto classic.

'Upward Bound' Leader Wants Great Experiment

New York Times Service

Washington — The director of one of the most successful integrated educational programs in the war on poverty says he would like to see a "great experiment" in this country: a college broken along racial lines instead of academic disciplines.

Dr. Thomas A. Billings, a professor of education who has run the Upward Bound program to help get bright, poor high school students into college, expressed the view on his last day in the job this week. He has been connected with Upward Bound for four years.

In Billings's experimental university, four contiguous but separate colleges — for blacks, American Indians, Mexican-Americans and perhaps one other large minority group, might be built on one campus. All would share classes in the "hard sciences and technology," but "the humanities would be approached from each minority's separate racial experience," as Billings sees it.

On his dream campus, the administration would be relegated "to a quonset hut at one side to do fund-raising and bookkeeping."

He said that Upward Bound, which has trained, taught and motivated 26,000 poor teen-agers towards college admission since 1965, "has yet to have a major racial incident." The ethnic makeup nationally is 52% black, 30% white and 18% Indian, Spanish-American and other minority groups.

Billings pointed out that about 80% of Upward Bound students graduate from high school and go on to college. The number who stay in college are near the national average — 65% still in by their junior year as against 67% for all American college students.

The program operated this year on a $31.4 million budget, which Billings called "cruel tokenism."

Laramie, Wyo. (P) — Laramie police are looking either for an enterprising college student trying to find a quiet place to study or for someone trying to beat the high rents.

Underneath a manhole cover at a Laramie street intersection near the University of Wyoming campus, police discovered what they termed "small but neat living quarters."

Someone had laid a rug and brought in a chair and several books to the little cubbyhole under the street.

Adam Clayton Powell's Son Married To Socialite Writer

Washington (P) — Adam Clayton Powell III took a socialite writer as his bride Saturday in a wedding in a chapel of the Washington Cathedral.

The son of the New York congressman wed Beryl Slocum whom he met at a party last September in New York, where he is a producer of Columbia Broadcasting System news shows.

Powell is a light-skinned Negro and Miss Slocum is white and the daughter of a family socially prominent in Rhode Island for generations. Democratic Rep. Adam Clayton Powell Jr., a Baptist minister, wore his long robes to the wedding and led the bride and groom in private prayers in a tiny room adjacent to the chapel.

Abidjan, Ivory Coast (P) — The Ivory Coast broke diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union Friday and ordered all Soviet diplomats to leave Abidjan by Sunday night.

No reason was given for the break but it had been expected.

French Campaign Ends Dramatically

By HENRY TANNER

Paris — The campaign for the first round of the French presidential election came to an end Friday night in a final burst of Gallic oratory and political striptease.

Like so many beauty queens, the seven candidates succeeded each other on the nation's television screen each pleading and preening in his own way during his allotted time of six minutes.

The surprise of the show was Alain Pöher, the interim president who finally dropped his mask of the benign Mr. Everybody and for the first time savaged his principal rival, George Pompidou, in a biting personal attack.

"Cannot Deceive" "See here, Mr. Pompidou, it may be true as you say that Frenchmen do not know me well as yet, but at least they know that I, as far as I am concerned, have always defended the same ideas. You, they know you well, they have seen you at work, and you cannot deceive them."

He recalled that Pompidou was President De Gaulle's premier for six years. "What did you do then, Mr. Pompidou?" He asked. Then he charged that as head of the government, his Gaullist rival had done the opposite of what he was now promising to the voters.

The tartness of his personal attack was a complete departure from Pöher's previous campaign strategy, in which he played the role of the high-minded conciliator who would heal past wounds and remain above partisan polemics.

Pompidou also changed his strategy, but in the opposite direction. Having fought a furious battle for two weeks, he cast himself Friday night in the solemn posture of De Gaulle's worthy heir.

"Frenchwomen, Frenchmen, this is the hour of choice," Pompidou said in tones evocative of De Gaulle's most dramatic appeals to the nation in times of crisis.

"We must maintain what General De Gaulle and the Fifth Republic have achieved for us," he said, and he continued by citing the central themes of past Gaullist campaigns: independence, stability, security and action.

Pompidou is favored to finish first in Sunday's first-round ballot. But since, according to the polls, he is likely to fall short of a majority, there will almost certainly be a runoff two weeks later between him and Pöher, who is expected to finish second on Sunday.

Student Dies; He Set Self Afire To Protest 'Genocide In Biafra'

New York (UPI) — A Columbia University student who set himself afire Thursday in the north gardens of the United Nations to protest "genocide in Biafra," died Friday in Bellevue Hospital.

Hospital officials said Bruce Mayrock, 20, of Old Westbury, N.Y., died of burns over most of his body.

Mayrock set himself afire in view of hundreds of spectators and secretariat members between the Dag Hammarskjöld Memorial steps and the Soviet statue of a man beating his sword into a plowshare.

U.N. guards extinguished the flames and took him to the hospital.

Mayrock was carrying a hand-lettered cardboard sign that read: "You must stop genocide in Biafra. Please save nine million lives. Peace is a state in which fear does not exist."

It was not known how Mayrock ignited himself. No tins for gasoline or other flammable material were found.

The farm outlook is important. Complete coverage of the latest of importance to agriculture appears on the "Sunday Journal and Star" farm page.

Woman Put On FBI Wanted List

Washington (UPI) — An escaped Florida murderess condemned to death in the electric chair became the second woman to be placed on the FBI's list of 10-most-wanted criminals.

Marie Dean Arrington, 35, has been sought since March 1 when she broke out of a State Women's Prison at Lowell, Fla., where she was being held for execution for the 1963 slaying of an attorney's legal secretary.

Scouts Set Off On Canoe Adventure

Expectations were high and eyebrows rose as Scout Troop 35 left Lincoln Friday morning on its ninth annual trek west for a canoe trip down the Niobrara River.

Expectations of the 26 troop members and eight of their fathers were high as they looked forward to ten days of adventure with rapids, rattlesnakes and camping out.

Eyebrows of anyone witnessing their departure probably rose when one saw black and orange-striped, polka-dotted, rainbow-colored, diamond-decorated and similarly ornate canoes being carried out of town on canoe trailers and car roofs.

Marker Leads Group The wild decorations on the 17 canoes are an innovation this year, Scout Master Robert Marker of 4225 Lennox, said. The boys and their fathers build and decorate the canoes, and add about three a year to the troop supply, he said.

Marker is a veteran of all nine canoe trips. "We are really proud of these canoes," he said.

Byron Burnham and Kevin Maaske.

The boys are all from 11 to 14 years of age. Accompanying them will be their leaders and fathers, Bob Marker, Gerald Herndon, Ken Versaw, George Hejl, Don Miller, Dave Keene, Bernard Maaske and Jesse Nelson.

Many Sites Planned During the trip the boys will see Snake River Falls, the largest waterfall in Nebraska, Fort Falls, Prairie Falls and Smith Falls, the highest waterfall in the state. They will climb Old Baldy and attend church on a riverbank.

Other highlights include walking across a swinging bridge over the Niobrara and camping within 500 yards of a rattlesnake den.

"It's safe, because when we come, they leave," Marker said.

Marker said the trips began nine years ago when his scout troop got tired of going to summer camp and decided to do something "different." They suggested a canoe trip and rounded up all the available canoes in Lincoln, he said.

ANDRETTI BREEZES IN INDY '500'

... Victory Casts Aside Past Frustrations Of Mario, Andy Granatelli

Indianapolis (AP) — Little Mario Andretti cast aside past frustrations this Memorial Day and breezed to a record-setting victory in the $750,000 Indianapolis 500 auto race as mechanical woes struck down his opposition one by one.

The 29-year-old Italian-born Andretti, still smarting from burns suffered in a crash only nine days ago, roared to a two-lap lead over the field with almost 150 miles to go and never was seriously challenged. "I prayed those last 150 miles," the wiry 135-pound driver said. "So many things have happened to me here in the past."

His average speed of 156.867 miles per hour was a record for this 53-year-old premiere event in U.S. motorsports. His time for the distance was 3 hours, 11 minutes and 14.71 seconds.

Dan Gurney, driving a stock block Ford of his own design, came in second, a bare eight seconds ahead of last year's winner Bobby Unser. Mel Kenyon of Lebanon, Ind., was fourth while fifth place went to Joe Leonard of San Jose, Calif., in a conventional piston car. Andretti's victory in a Hawk-Ford built by veteran mechanic Clint Brawner was the first for car owner Andy Granatelli, a Chicago manufacturer of engine additives.

Granatelli, a competitor at the Speedway as a driver and owner since 1946, bought the Andretti operation earlier this year as the key to an 11-car assault on this year's event. Only three of the cars made the field, and Andretti's was the only Granatelli car that finished.

The winning car was Andretti's second choice for the race. He crashed his No. 1 car, a wedge-shaped Ford, on May 21 and received facial burns.

Andretti, a two-time U.S. driving champion, had never won the 500 in five previous starts. Although he was the fastest qualifier twice, his best previous finish was third in 1965.

His payoff could top the $177,000 paid Unser for his 1968 victory. His lap money alone amounted to $17,400.

Except for mechanical failures that eliminated all but 1/2 of the original 33 starting cars, the race was free of major accidents.

The caution flag was out for only 14 minutes, once when a car driven by veteran Jim McElreath of Arlington, Tex., caught fire as it sped past the front grandstand, and another time when Arnie Knepper hit a wall after a half-shaft broke. Both McElreath and Knepper escaped injury.

There were only four leaders — Andretti, A. J. Foyt, Wally Dallenbach and Lloyd Ruby — as Andretti dominated from the halfway point on.

Foyt, who swapped the lead with Andretti three times in the early going, still was making a race of it when he had to pit for 23 minutes to rebuild the turbocharger on his Coyote Ford. He never got back into contention.

Ruby, who was the leader

MAKING HIS MOVE . . . Andretti, No. 2, passes Ruby to take the lead on the 86th lap.

briefly at the midway point, pulled out his fueling tank connections on a pit stop and had to retire.

Dallenbach, driving the sprite turbo-charged Offy, spun off the track after charging to the front from his seventh row starting position.

Gurney's average speed for second place was 155.333. It, too, was well above Unser's record-setting 152.882 m.p.h. of last year. The terrific pace took its toll of cars early in the race.

Jack Brabham of Australia ran into mechanical problems after two laps and spent an hour and 15 minutes in the pits repairing a faulty ignition. He never was a contender and stopped on the 135th lap because of an oil leak.

Art Pollard of Medford, Ore., driving a turbo-charged Offy, was the first of the three STP-sponsored cars to depart. He made only seven laps.

An hour later, Carl Williams in another of the Andy Granatelli entries had to leave because of clutch troubles.

Southern stock car ace Lee Roy Yarborough, who started a turbo-charged Ford in the third row, had to quit after 67 laps.

But Yarborough, who won the World 600 stock car race at Charlotte, N.C., last Sunday, had his troubles from the start. His car wouldn't fire when the field moved off behind the pace car. His crew managed to get it going after the other cars had made one circuit and the 30-year-old Columbia, S.C., driver played catch up after that. He got as high as ninth before quitting.

Another Australian, Denis Hulme, ran well with the leaders for more than half the race before encountering mechanical woes. He was in third place when his Gurney Eagle-Ford stalled in the pits.

—'YOU NEVER HAVE IT WON'—

Mario Was Never Relaxed

Indianapolis, Ind. (AP)—Mario Andretti grinned through his painful burn blisters like a happy Italian waif and said he never relaxed Friday in his run-away victory in the rich Indianapolis 500-mile race.

"You never have it won until they give you the checkered flag," said the small, smiling Andretti, who brought the first 500 triumph to legendary hardluck owner Andy Granatelli.

Granatelli, who saw his cars roll to a stop within sight of the finish line while leading each of the past two years, said, "I didn't get confident until he was 100 feet from the flag and then I knew he could coast in."

Andretti hit a wall in fiery crash in practice only nine days ago and still bore the burns across his face.

"It's kind of itchy. But I wasn't going to let anything bother me out there today," he said.

The 5-foot-5 Andretti, who sneaked away from Italy to race on road circuits when he was only 13, blazed to victory with a record speed of 156.867 miles per hour. He won by four miles over runner-up Dan Gurney.

The victory meant an incredible comeback for Andretti who was last in the 1969 race, finished only one lap before his car failed.

Granatelli, who has been trying to win the 500 for 23 years and who stirred controversy with his turbine racers the past two years, met Andretti in victory lane with his arms wide open. He beat the beauty queen to plant the first kiss on his driver.

"He said I'm a sloppy kisser," Granatelli confided later.

The 29-year-old Andretti hugged his expectant wife Dee Ann, and got congratulations from another Italian-born American, John A. Volpe, secretary of transportation in the Nixon cabinet. Volpe, looking at his countryman, said, "It sure is nice."

Andretti said he was in trouble twice in the Memorial Day classic — once at the very start when his radiator began boiling, then later when he went into a sideways slide on a back stretch turn while far into the lead with only 125 miles left in the race.

"I got caught napping," Andretti said. But he pulled out of the skid without trouble.

Heat gave Andretti his most persistent problem. He charged past pole-sitter A. J. Foyt Jr. to seize the lead on the first turn of the first lap, but had to drop back after 15 miles.

"The water temperature went right up to 225 degrees," Andretti said. "I had to slow to cool it a bit. I figured that was it right there."

Andretti blamed the overheating on the official ruling which forbade a change in his car to install a new water cooler after qualifications and which prompted him to threaten to quit in the squabble at mid-week.

The driver nursed his car through the first 250 miles, staying close to the leaders until one by one they dropped out.

At the halfway mark Lloyd Ruby, holding a slim lead over Andretti, pulled into the pits and never came out. Andretti said, "When Ruby dropped out I had things pretty easy for me. It was a great relief."

Andretti, now of Nazareth, Pa., became the third European driver to win the 500 in the past five years. He came to the United States when he was 15. Andretti finished third in his rookie race in Indianapolis in 1965 and set speed records in qualifying first the next two years, but was plagued with mechanical trouble until winning Friday.

"This has got to be the greatest thing," he said. "I don't know why. But it is."

ANDRETTI . . . gets congratulations and a kiss from his wife.

Ak-Sar-Ben Return Says 'O Be Joyful' To Fans

... WEST LINE RETURNS $35.40

Omaha—Bettors might have heard a voice from the mutual windows saying, "O Be Joyful" after the feature race Friday as a horse by that name won the $20,000-added 41st running of the Ak-Sar-Ben King's Handicap.

The winning return on O Be Joyful was $26.40, third-highest payoff on the Memorial Day card. Gay Pursuit and Mr. Swinger, two of the favorites, finished 2-3 behind O Be Joyful.

West Line paid $35.40 to win the ninth and Gem's Spy $28.00 to take the fourth race for the best rewards of the day.

The daily double paid $82.40 as Lucky Para Dice and Lady Magna formed a 9-2 combination ticket.

Four jockeys—L. J. Durosseau, Don Lewis, Burl McBride and Donald MacBeth—all rode two winners apiece.

Jeff Wisemiller Wins Midstates Golden 880

By VIRGIL PARKER

Star Sports Writer

Gothenburg — A little of the glitter came off the Golden 880, the feature race of the 12th running of the Midstates Federation Track and Field Championships here Friday night.

Gold medal winner Rick Waldron of Minden was a last-minute scratch because of a sore tendon suffered when he captured the Class B state meet half-mile with a 1:56 timing. Omaha North's Jim Hawkins, with the best clocking for a prepster in the state this year at 1:53, had already bypassed the meet because of graduation exercises.

But a top field comprised of eight high schoolers who had all been clocked under two minutes this spring was assembled and Fremont's Jeff Wisemiller, a second-place finisher in the Class A state finals, led the way to the tape in 1:57.8. Six of the eight entries were bunched under the two-minute mark.

Seven new records were set during the morning, afternoon and early portion of the evening session of the day-long meet. Three divisions, women's, juniors, and college, started action at 10 a.m., with the final event not completed until nearly 12 hours later.

The final afternoon running event saw a quartet of University of Nebraska speedsters set a new record in the 440-yard relay with a :41.9 clocking. Mike Randall, Garth Case, Clifton Forbes and Lennox Burgher were 3 of a second under the timing run by Scott Hayman, Larry Frost, Tom Bassett and Bill Daiss, who ran under the banner of the Northeast Track Club last year.

Toni Churchill of the Lincoln Spartans, a group formed out of East High, surpassed the women's high jump mark with a 5-1 effort while the junior division height in the same event was also topped by Roger Sides of Alameda, Kan., when he jumped 6-4 1/2.

A second junior division standard was recorded by Mike Rol of Hastings High when he flipped the discus 169-11.

The collegiate pole vault field featured three 15-foot plus jumpers, but a windy day held winner Gary Pettit of Morningside College, Iowa to 14-9, which still erased the old mark by one inch.

The sixth record fell when Lincoln Southeast's Bill Eaton came up with the state's first 14-foot vault by a prepster. Eaton, who won the Gold Medal at the state meet with a 13-10 effort, cleared 14-1/2, a new career high.

The final record early in the evening session came when NU's Garth Case sped the 440-yard dash in :47.7, 2 of a second under teammate Clifton Forbes' record established last year.

Cubs' Hands Blanks Braves, 2-0, In Leaders' Battle

BILL HANDS

By Associated Press
Bill Hands pitched a five-hitter Friday as the Chicago Cubs defeated Atlanta 2-0 in the first confrontation of the National League's divisional leaders.

Hands, 4-5, was in a shutout battle with Ron Reed when the Cubs broke the ice. Randy Hundley opened the seventh inning with a bunt single and Don Young, after failing to bunt, was hit by an 0-2 pitch.

Hands then bunted, and the bases were filled when Reed fumbled the ball for an error.

Hundley scored as Don Kessinger forced Hands and Glenn Beckert singled in the other run.

Hands gave up a two-out double to Hank Aaron in the first inning and then set down the next 16 batters before Felix Millan doubled to open the seventh. Hands then fanned Aaron, got Orlando Cepeda to ground out and struck out Cleto Boyer to end the inning.

John Edwards, who grounded into the first triple play of the season in the first game, lashed a two-run single in the ninth inning of the second game, sparking Houston to a 9-6 victory over Pittsburgh.

The Pirates stopped the Astros' 10-game winning streak in the opener, winning 9-3 behind a 17-hit assault and Jim Bunning's five-hitter.

Light-hitting Bobby Knoop capped a five-run sixth inning with a three-run homer and Chicago tripped Washington 8-5 after the Senators won the opener of their doubleheader 5-4 on a throwing error in the 10th inning.

Bobby Murcer's two-run homer and Roy White's triple, also good for two runs, fired an early New York explosion and Fritz Peterson took charge to pitch the Yankees to a 6-2 victory over Kansas City in the first game of a doubleheader. The second game was rained out.

Jose Cardenal started an eight-run first inning with a single and capped it with a grand slam homer, sending Cleveland to a 9-2 rout over Oakland in the opener of a doubleheader. Luis Tiant worked seven innings for his first victory after seven losses.

Norm Cash socked a two-run homer in the fourth inning, then rapped a tie-breaking single in the fifth as the Detroit Tigers beat Seattle 8-5.

There were four National League night games Friday, San Francisco at the New York Mets, San Diego at Montreal, Los Angeles at Philadelphia and Cincinnati at St. Louis. There were two American League night games, Baltimore at California and Minnesota at Boston.

Elder, Yancey Tied For Memphis Lead

... LEE SHAKES OFF INCIDENT

Memphis, Tenn. (AP) — Lee Elder, one of the few Negroes on the pro golf tour, shook off the effect of what he called "the first incident I've had on the tour" Friday and moved into a tie with Bert Yancey for the second-round lead in the Memphis Open with a 36-hole total of 131.

Elder, 32, playing out of Washington, D.C., and Yancey, a former West Point cadet, each had 67s, three under par on the 6,485-yard Colonial Country Club course.

The slim Elder, gunning for his first tour victory in this $150,000 event, said the incident occurred on the par five 13th.

"My tee shot hit a tree and dropped into the left rough," Elder said, speaking softly and obviously still upset. "A couple of kids picked up the ball and threw it into a hedge."

"We could see it from the tee. I was fortunate enough to have Terry Dill stand up for me on it. I called for a ruling and got a free drop."

"After that there was a lot of hollering from the gallery, from people who didn't think I was entitled to a drop. It was pretty hot for a while, but then things calmed down. The whole thing lasted about 20 minutes. Both kids and adults were yelling at me."

He said, however, the taunts from the crowd were not racial in nature.

Just one stroke back at 132 were lanky Dale Douglass, with a second-round 66; John Lotz, who had a 68; Hale Irwin, with the day's best round, 65, and veteran Dan Sikes, 66.

Gary Player and Miller

Barber each had a 67 and were tied at 133.

Lee Trevino, the U.S. Open champion, and Gene Littler, the season's leading money-winner, still were very much in contention at 134, each taking a 69.

They were tied with Dave Hill, 67; Lou Graham, 69, and Charles Coody, 68.

First-round leader Bob McCallister, who opened with a fantastic 63, blew to a 75 and was far back in the pack at 138.

Yank Netters Make Last 16

Paris (AP) — A trio of United States Davis Cup stars, Arthur Ashe, Stan Smith and Cliff Richey, moved impressively into the last 16 of the French Open Tennis Championships Friday, while touring professional Dennis Ralston crashed to a humiliating defeat.

Play was interrupted by heavy showers which left the red clay courts of the Roland Garros Stadium heavy and sluggish.

Ralston, of Bakersfield, Calif., tamely surrendered to Zeljko Franulovic of Yugoslavia, who scored a 6-2, 6-0, 6-1 victory. It was one of the most one-sided matches since the tournament started last Monday.

Ralston's game came apart completely after he had dropped service to Trail 2-3 in the first set. He won only one more game in the entire match.

Ralston, who is ranked No. 8 on the world list, said he was tired after playing nine sets of singles and doubles Thursday.

Richey, of San Angelo, Tex., downed the left-handed Egyptian Ismael el Shafel, the No. 12 seed in the tournament, 6-2, 7-5, 6-8, 6-1.

At 5-5 in the second set a downpour held up play for an hour. Immediately after resumption, El Shafel served what appeared to be a good ace — but the umpire called a fault. The Egyptian appeared ruffled and went on to lose that game.

Earlier, Richey had completed a second-round victory over Luis Ayala of Chile in a match interrupted by rain Thursday night.

Ashe, of Green Springs, Va., cruised past Barry Phillips-Moore of Australia 6-4, 6-3, 6-1.

Smith, of Los Angeles, outlasted Premjit Lall of India 3-6, 6-3, 6-1, 4-6, 6-0.

The day started with Rod Laver of Australia, top favorite for the first prize of $7,000, completing his comeback against fellow-Australian Dick Crealy and winning 3-6, 7-9, 6-2, 6-4.

Crealy had threatened to spring a sensational upset by winning the first two sets Thursday night before play was halted by rain.

Laver and two other Australian professionals — Tony Roche and Ken Rosewall — all scored easy victories Friday to make the last 16. They are seeded first, second and third respectively.

Istvan Gulys, 38-year-old Hungarian, eliminated South Africa's Davis Cup star, Bob Hewitt, 11-9, 6-0, 0-6, 7-5.

Tom Okker of The Netherlands — the newest recruit to the professional circus, who has won nearly $20,000 in the last three months — downed Georges Goven of France 6-3, 6-2, 7-5.

Manuel Santana of Spain, winner of the French title in 1961 and 1964, hammered Bob Carmichael of Australia 6-2, 6-2, 6-1.

Continental Grid Lineup All Settled

San Jose, Calif. (AP) — An expanded 138-game schedule featuring 40 inter-divisional games has been announced by the enlarged Continental Football League.

The season opens on Aug. 23, and each of the 23 teams in the four divisions will play 12 league games. The championship game is set for the weekend of Dec. 6.

A new eight-team division in Texas, which operated last year as the Texas Football League, has been added. New members were added in Newark and Hawaii.

In the new setup, the Atlantic Division includes the Jersey Jays, Norfolk Neptunes, Orlando, Alabama Hawks, and Arkansas Diamonds.

The Central Division contains the Chicago Owls, Omaha Mustangs, Indianapolis Capitols, Tri-city, Mich., Apollos and the Ohio Valley Ironmen.

The Pacific Division teams are the Spokane Shockers, Seattle Rangers, Hawaiian Warriors, Sacramento Capitols and Las Vegas Cowboys.

The Texas Division includes the Dallas Rockets, Fort Worth Braves, San Antonio Toros, Monterrey, Mexico, Aztecs, Tulsa Thunderbirds, Texarkana Titans, West Texas Rufeks and El Paso Jets.

Lincoln Attracts Visitors From Foreign Countries

Lincoln may be quietly becoming an internationally known city, thanks to the efforts of the Mayor's Committee for International Friendship, headed by Nebraska Secretary of State Frank Marsh.

The group is responsible for arranging programs for international visitors to the city and helps in finding host families for foreign guests staying in Lincoln for longer periods of time.

About 88 foreign visitors were hosted by the committee last year, according to Mrs. James Van Etten, one of the members, but the number is burgeoning. Fifty visitors came to Lincoln in May and that many are expected each month this summer.

The eighteen members of the committee expect to be rather busy for a while.

Uniqueness Noted
There are several unique features which are drawing foreign visitors to Lincoln, according to Frank Marsh, who points out that Nebraska is rapidly losing its image as a cultural desert.

Among Lincoln's attractions are the Unicameral, Nebraska's political rarity; the fact that Lincoln is a city with state, county and city government in one town, which is not too common; the University of Nebraska, especially the College of Agriculture; and Lincoln's "big little city" size, Marsh said.

He noted that many visitors from other countries have commented on the openness and the hospitality of American midwesterners, and that this is another point in Lincoln's favor.

Many of the short-term visitors are invited to Lincoln through United States State Department agencies such as the Agency for Cultural Affairs and the Agency for International Development.

Besides hosting visitors, the committee also works in cooperation with other programs such as the American Field Service, the International Farm Youth Exchange, the International Christian Youth Exchange, and the University's Foreign Student Host Program.

Visitors Have Prestige
Marsh added that a large number of the visitors to the city are either in professions or are high-ranking government officials in their countries, such as the ambassador to the United States from Ghana, who recently participated in the University of Nebraska's Centennial Dedication.

Some of our visitors are former foreign students at the University, Marsh added, as, for example, Mohammed Roasham, a 1950 graduate of NU in journalism who is presently considered to be the number-two man in the government of Afghanistan.

Mrs. Van Etten explained that each member of the committee takes turns planning the itinerary of the visitor after the State Department, an agency, or simply another international resident of the city has let them know someone will be arriving (usually within 10 days to 2 weeks).

Meetings Arranged
Then a program is set up for the visitor to meet with people in the city that are in his field or profession, and with government officials. Also, the committee tries to arrange at least one home visit.

"We've had excellent cooperation from the community and we've never really been turned down when we asked someone to help us host a visitor," Mrs. Van Etten added.

The Mayor's Committee has been in existence for about four years and now has an office in the Terminal Building. And it looks as if more and more people from countries such as Chad, Iran, and Taiwan will be arriving to study in fields ranging from insurance companies and grain storage to the Unicameral and Lincoln's Police Department.

New Boutique Reveals Most

London (UPI) — "What's going on here then," the policeman asked as he pushed through the crowd to see six girls sitting in the boutique window on Carnaby Street wearing hats and nothing else.

"Okay girls, that's it. The show's over," he said as soon as he could enter the shop, which staged the display to celebrate its grand opening. The shop owner was charged with causing an obstruction.

"What else does a girl need to wear these days," said Terri Graham, 19, who wore a strategically placed feather in addition to her hat.

Soviet, U.S. Astronauts Playing Hide And Seek

Paris (UPI) — U.S. and Soviet astronauts played hide and seek at the Paris Air Show Friday as the Russians apparently sought to avoid meeting their American counterparts.

National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) officials tried in vain to fix a rendezvous so Apollo 9 astronaut James McDivitt, David Scott and Russell Schweikart could at least shake hands with Soyuz Four and Five cosmonauts, Vasily Shatalov and Andrei Yeliseyev.

NASA officials said they were willing to upset the astronauts' tightly timed schedule to meet the Russians, but the Soviets were vague about timing.

GM Chairman Hits Jackpot: Wins Cadillac

Detroit (UPI) — James M. Roche won a shiny new Cadillac as a door prize at a fund-raising dinner but he gave it back.

Roche is board chairman of General Motors.

The Cadillac was the door prize at the dinner at the posh suburban Grosse Pointe Yacht Club. After 500 patrons had paid $100 a plate for a chance to win the car, Roche was the lucky one.

Roche already has a Cadillac, a white 1969 Coupe de Ville, and he's chauffeured around most of the time in another company-owned Cadillac.

8 U.S. Warships Kept Near Coast Of North Korea

Washington (UPI) — The Defense Department said it is keeping a fleet of eight warships off the Korean coast to protect U.S. intelligence flights in the area.

A spokesman said the ships, including an aircraft carrier, are "still operational ... in international waters off Korea."

The carrier Kitty Hawk has replaced the nuclear-powered carrier Enterprise to lead the force of seven destroyers, the spokesman said.

The fleet was hastily formed after a U.S. intelligence-gathering aircraft was shot down by North Korean MIGs April 15. The fleet originally consisted of four carriers, three cruisers and 22 destroyers but was reduced to its

Two Plan Goodwill Trip To Red China

Tokyo (AP) — Brian A. Victoria, 29, a Zen Buddhist priest from Omaha, Neb., said he will join Dr. Earle Reynolds, a U.S. pacifist, on his "goodwill mission" to Red China next month.

"I am deeply interested in establishing relations between the United States and Communist China on the people's level," Victoria said in explaining one of several reasons why he will go to Shanghai with Reynolds.

Victoria will be one of a crew of eight aboard the Phoenix, a 50-foot ketch, which will leave Nagasaki about June 10.

Reynolds, 59, an anthropologist from Yellow Springs, Ohio, tried to sail the Phoenix to Shanghai last September, but he and his party were prevented from doing so by Japanese authorities.

Victoria said another reason he is going to China is "to continue studies in Zen Buddhism for my master's degree and if possible to visit a well-known Zen Buddhist temple there."

Victoria, who has been in Japan for nine years and a Buddhist monk for two years, said he expects to join Reynolds, June 5 to make last-minute preparations for the voyage.

'Fabulous Irishman,' Robert Briscoe, Dies

Dublin, Ireland (AP) — The son of a Lithuanian immigrant, who grew up to be an Irish rebel and Dublin's only Jewish mayor, died Friday after a life so colorful that Hollywood made a movie about him.

Robert Briscoe, "The Fabulous Irishman," was 74.

He had been in failing health for years and spent the last six months in bed — all President Eamon De Valera came to sit at his bedside a week ago — but the exact cause of death was not revealed.

Briscoe, an Irishman and a Zionist who campaigned abroad for Ireland and Israel, was chosen lord mayor of the Roman Catholic capital in 1956 in typical Irish warring fashion — the city council pulled his name out of a hat. But to prove it wasn't sheer luck, Briscoe campaigned for mayor again in 1961 and won on a regular vote.

Name Of Bob Liked
"Call me Bob," he told countless Americans on his informal tours of the United States — and hundreds did.

His visits brought American investment and tourist dollars to Ireland — and they were models of Irish friendliness. In 1957 he took along more than half a ton of baggage, including cases of Irish whisky and bundles of shillelaghs as gifts.

Briscoe was born in Dublin in 1894 and grew up as the Irish "troubles" were beginning. His father sent him to the United States in World War I when Britain threatened to draft Irishmen into the British army.

Young Bob came back just after the 1916 Easter Rebellion, joined the Fianna Eireann rebels and was sent to America and Germany to buy guns to use against the British. So the Jewish rebel became a gun-runner and he called himself "Captain Swift" when he ran the British blockades.

Briscoe didn't find it strange that the Irish capital elected a Jew as lord mayor.

"I'm one of them, and as an Irishman why shouldn't I be lord mayor," he said years ago. Perhaps a more puzzling thing to him was why two of his daughters — he had three of them, and four sons — became Roman Catholics, and one even became a Carmelite nun. But he said at the time: "I believe in the right of private conscience."

A devoted disciple of De Valera, Briscoe joined his Fianna party, or Soldiers of Destiny, party and got elected to the Dail, Ireland's parliament, in 1927. He served in it until 1965 when ill health made him resign from public life.

Britishers End Crossing Of Arctic Sea

London (UPI) — Four British explorers radioed Queen Elizabeth Friday that they have completed "the first surface crossing of the Arctic Ocean."

The radio message was sent by expedition leader Wally Herbert, 34, to his London headquarters which sent it on to the queen at Buckingham Palace.

It was the first indication that the four men had reached a tiny island north of Spitzbergen — about 650 miles northwest of Hammerfest in Norway — after several days adrift on an ice flow in danger of breaking up.

It also signalled the virtual successful completion of a 464-day saga on foot and sled that took the expedition 3,600 miles across the roof of the world from Point Barrow, Alaska, by way of the north pole.

Deputies Arrest Men Connected With Underworld

Las Vegas, Nev. (AP) — A squad of deputies boarded a charter plane about to leave for Kansas City and arrested 18 persons who Sheriff Ralph Lamb said have known underworld connections. About 100 other passengers were permitted to continue the flight.

The men, all from Kansas City, had been in Las Vegas several days. They were booked on misdemeanor charges of vagrancy.

They were identified by Lamb as: Michael Bondon; Thomas Nigro, 31; Pat Maturro, 52; Tony Giambrone, 46; Salvatore A'ello, 48; Joe Bono, 53; Joseph Carrola, 52; Philip Forte, 50; Manuel Carvello, 48; Pete Palmentere, 57; James Genova, 34; Joseph Strada, 58; Tom Fontanello, 56; George Beskas, 68; Paul Barsalona, 49; Tony Civella, 39; Joseph Harris, 49 and Jack Dibenedetto, 45.

Lamb said Nevada state policy is to discourage "known underworld types" from visiting the gambling capital.

Czechoslovakian Guards Say 119 Try Crossovers

Prague (UPI) — A total of 119 persons, twice as many as last year, have tried to cross from Czechoslovakia into Austria since Jan. 1, Slovak border officials said Friday.

Maj. Viktor Gallo of the Bratislava frontier command said most of the violators were Czechoslovaks, but there were also five Poles, eight East Germans, one Bulgarian, one Italian and one West German.

FUNGUS is AMONG-US!!

This is the season for the beginning of fungus in lawns. Prevention is better than the cure — a lawn that is developing fungus damage will have an undercast of brown and the lawn will appear to be thinning out. This Is Fungus!

We call it "melting out" because of this thinning. If you will put a preventative application of Scutl or Turf Builder Plus One now and another the last of June, you should prevent large damage areas, later.

Concordia To Honor Two Men

Seward—The Honorable Lt. Gov. Paul Simon of Illinois will receive the honorary degree of doctor of laws and the Rev. Dr. A. O. Fuerbringer, president of Concordia Theological Seminary in St. Louis, Mo., will receive the honorary degree of doctor of letters at Concordia Teachers College commencement Saturday.

Dr. William A. Kramer of St. Louis, secretary of schools of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, will deliver the commencement address, according to Dr. W. T. Janzow, Concordia president.

Some 336 seniors will receive degrees.

Two Master Teacher awards will be presented to Arnold J. Glaess of St. Joseph, Mich., and Edgar C. Brommer of Woodland, Calif., for their contributions to the field of education.

Dr. Fuerbringer served as president of Concordia Teachers College from 1941 to 1954. Since then he has been president of Concordia Seminary, succeeding his father and grandfather who also served the seminary as presidents.

Lt. Gov. Simon first achieved recognition as a newspaper man, buying his first paper at the age of 19. When he was elected in 1968 he became the first lieutenant governor in Illinois history to be elected with a governor of a different political affiliation.

The non-newsmakers...

what are they doing?

Publicity and public attention at any price is the farthest thing from their minds. They are not looking for something to complain about. They can see things about them which need improvement and they are willing to tackle the task. But they see some good things too.

They don't believe in criticism and protest without offering constructive alternatives. They believe that soap and water and a neat appearance go hand in hand with health and happiness. They know their strength is in their numbers because they comprise the overwhelming majority of the young people in the world today.

Why are they so inconspicuous? Because they are busy doing things which need to be done. More of them perform works of charity than we ever hear about. They are applying themselves to their educations, going to church every week, participating in sports, furnishing the real leadership in their own groups, and working in ways which contribute to the betterment of society.

Right now they are seeking summer jobs. Thousands upon thousands of them are ready to contribute an honest day's work for a fair wage during the summer months. Groups like this are studying the Journal-Star Want Ads daily in search of summer work. Can you use a fine American in your place of business this summer? If you can, let them know of your opening by placing a Help Wanted Ad in the Journal & Star.

Elrod Says School Board Resolution Set

Grand Island (UPI) — Sen. Don Elrod of Grand Island predicted Friday his resolution to censure five members of the State Board of Education will be brought to the floor of the Legislature next week.

The resolution is in the hands of the Education Committee whose chairman, Lester Harsh of McCook, has indicated will take action on the matter Wednesday.

Elrod said the resolution in itself probably won't be effective. "I don't think it can do what we want it to," he said. "It won't change the attitudes of the majority of the state board."

However, Elrod said, the resolution could lead to other action by the Legislature "because I do know that when the legislature was informed of what the state board did, a majority of the Legislature was certainly upset."

Elrod has also indicated he would not be opposed to impeachment procedures.

The board Wednesday fired Dr. Floyd Miller as state education commissioner, a move which triggered widespread comment, much of it in opposition to the move.

Patrolman In Good Condition Following Crash

A Nebraska State Patrol trooper was reported in good condition Friday at Mennonite Hospital in Beatrice after being injured Thursday night when his patrol car went out of control during a high speed chase, according to patrol headquarters in Lincoln.

James Pierson, 28, of Beatrice suffered a fractured rib and numerous cuts and bruises in the accident.

The patrol said Pierson began pursuit of a speeder about 3½ miles north of Wymore, heading south on U.S. Highway 77.

Just as the pursued auto and pursuing patrol car entered Wymore, another car pulled out of a drive-in, forcing the fast-moving vehicles to swerve sharply.

Pierson's patrol car went out of control, plunged into a creek bed, struck a bank and went into some trees. Damage to the patrol car was estimated at $1,000.

The auto being pursued got away.

WISHING WELL

by William J. Miller

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
